Geneva-On-The-Lake Erupts

Police Brace For More Lake Resort Youth Riots

GENEVA - ON - THE - LAKE, Ohio (AP)—Police battled rioting profanity-shoting youths in two tiny Ohio resort towns early today and bolstered defenses against the possibility of more trouble tonight.

Four hundred national guardsmen sealed off Russells Point in western Ohio, where more than 60 were arrested during rioting involving about 1,500 persons.

Traffic into this Lake Erie resort of 600 residents was screened to keep out potential troublemakers after 29 were arrested during more than three hours of battling while up to 5,000 persons jammed the main downtown street.

Fourteen were counted as injured in Geneva, one a policeman hit in the head by one of the many rocks and other missiles launched at officers. A Russells Point policeman also was hurt.

In calling out the Guard, Gov. James A. Rhodes said troops would protect property in Russells Point, but had authority "to arrange for a stockade, if necessary." The guard commander, Col. C. H. Hertenstein, estimated damage at "several thousand dollars."

In Geneva - On - The - Lake, the 60-man police force was reinforced. Police Chief Ed Kemerait said he anticipated no further trouble, "but I'm ready . . . if they try it again, I'm ready."

In both communities, officers used clubs and tear gas to break up chanting, hooting crowds of college-age young people after violence erupted last night and early today.

Fighting broke out in Russells Point, a resort town of 1,100 on Indian Lake, after officers tried to disperse youths throwing firecrackers, shooting skyrockets and heckling motorists with sparklers. . .

In Geneva-On-The-Lake, a fist fight involving two youths drew a crowd Kermerait estimated at 2,000 to 5,000 which defied orders to disperse. He said only a handful actually fought police.

About 80 officers battled more than three hours before breaking up the crowd shortly before dawn. The sheriff's office said one of its cars was demolished and three others had windows broken by hurled rocks and beer cans.

Patrolman Ted Clark was admitted to a hospital with a concussion and three other officers —including Kemerait—received lesser injuries. Hospitals said they treated 10 others.

Missouri Police Halt Riot At Vacation Town

By The Associated Press

Officers from seven counties and the Missouri Highway Patrol rushed to Rockaway Beach, Mo., along with police dogs, as 2,000 to 3,000 rioters took the vacation town apart.

Some other scenes of past holiday riots — notably Newport, R.I. — reported the situation under control.

Ships Hint Soviet Aids North Viet

Recon Planes Spot Vessels Capable Of Carrying Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. reconnaissance has spotted a number of large-hatched ships arriving at North Viet Nam's main port, possibly indicating that the Russians have begun sending in some of their promised military aid.

Sources said Sunday that such vessels, big enough to carry crates containing MIG jets or antiaircraft missiles, reached Hai Phong fairly recently after long voyages from Soviet ports via the Mediterranean.

Sources stressed that it is not known for sure what the ships were carrying.

They said the number of Communist ships reaching Hai Phong has not been unusually large but that enough vessels have docked there to have provided a fairly sizable buildup of military equipment.

Ships with large hatches were used by the Russians to sneak missiles and bombers into Cuba in 1962. The same vessels hauled those weapons out of Cuba under threat of U.S. military action.

U.S. military sources said it is expected that the Soviets will carry through on their promise to provide armed help to the North Vietnamese.

Among other things, authorities believe that the North Vietnamese will get the up-to-date MIG 21 jet fighter.

Viet Cong Unit Shattered By U.S.-South Viet Push

BULLETIN

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force B52 bombers from Guam carried out an attack on Viet Cong communications and a troop staging area early Monday about 35 miles northeast of Saigon, a U.S. military spokesman announced.

It was the second reported B52 raid of the Vietnamese War.

An official announcement said the raid was "a spoiling mission designed to harass the enemy and disrupt his operations, facilities, communications and morale."

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — South Vietnamese troops and armor, fighting under supporting attacks by U.S. warplanes, shattered a Viet Cong battalion Sunday in a clash near the southern tip of Viet Nam.

U.S. officials said the guerrillas quit the fight after failing to overrun the government forces and left 90 of their own dead behind. Many were victims of the U.S. air attacks. The officials said 18 Viet Cong were captured.

Viet Cong gunners shot down a spotter plane, killing its American pilot and Vietnamese observer. The U.S. roll of combat dead since December 1961 rose to 459.

A U.S. spokesman said government casualties numbered 14 killed and 30 wounded. Four American military advisers were wounded.

The spokesman gave this account:

The battle broke out on the border of Bac Lieu and Ba Xuyen provinces on the Ca Mau Peninsula shortly after the Vietnamese units launched a search-and-destroy operation at 7:30 a.m.

Two and a half hours later the Viet Cong battalion, apparently hastily reinforced, hurled itself into the government forces. Normally, Viet Cong battalions range between 300 and 500 men.

U.S. Air Force planes then winged in on the Viet Cong, flying 52 sorties against guerrilla positions.

Capt. Charles B. Gulley, 30, of Brookhaven, Miss., led one flight of three Skyraiders which dropped 260-pound fragmentation bombs on Viet Cong hidden in a wooded area. The Viet Cong broke and ran into the open where the propeller-driven Skyraiders strafed them with 20 mm cannon fire. Gulley's flight was credited with an estimated 45 Viet Cong kills.

The Viet Cong broke off the fight in midafternoon. They left numerous weapons, including one antiaircraft machine gun.

Ground action elsewhere in South Viet Nam apparently was light.

In the air war against North Viet Nam, U.S. jets and propeller planes once again hammered at bridges, river traffic and an ammunition dump. Several buildings at the ammunition dump were hit but a lack of secondary explosions indicated the buildings contained no explosives, a U.S. spokesman said.

The U.S. spokesman said antiaircraft fire was light and that the planes made safe returns.

Road Deaths May Pass 590 Mark For Lengthy Weekend

By The Associated Press

Traffic accident deaths on the nation's highways continued to mount Sunday and safety experts expressed concern at the fatality rate which could set a record for an Independence Day weekend.

By Sunday afternoon, 271 traffic deaths had been recorded by The Associated Press. In addition, there were 10 boating fatalities and 31 drownings.

The highway death count began at 6 p.m. Friday.

The National Safety Council said the pace was ahead of last year's fatality record for the Independence Day observance.

Howard Pyle, council president, said, "If traffic fatalities continue at the present rate they will exceed not only the recent Memorial Day total of 490, but also last year's fourth of July toll of 510 — highest on record for a three-day observance of the holiday."

The council has estimated that between 470 and 570 persons would lose their lives in highway crashes.

In a corresponding summer weekend period of 78 hours not involving a holiday, a total of 435 deaths were reported on the nation's streets and highways. The Associated Press, for its own comparison, made a tally of traffic deaths for the non-holiday period from 6 p.m. Friday, June 18 through midnight Monday, June 21. The toll was 363.

Multiple deaths in crashes boosted the current curent.

Five persons in one automobile died in a collision with a bus Saturday near Waterloo, N.Y. Three young brothers were killed in a collision Saturday on the Ohio Turnpike.

Ohio Counts 28 Fatalities On Weekend

By The Associated Press

Ohio's holiday traffic toll soared toward a tragic new record Sunday, surpassing safety officials' grim predictions more than 40 hours ahead of time.

The latest Associated Press tabulation showed 28 killed in traffic since the July 4th holiday weekend began Friday at sundown.

The rate averaged a death every two hours. Ohio's toll led the nation.

State safety officials had predicted 24 persons would lose their lives on Ohio streets and highways over the 78-hour weekend.

Twenty-one died in traffic last year during the three-day July 4th holiday.

The total tabulation showed four other deaths by drowning and one from miscellaneous cause.

Fifteen were reported dead by late Saturday night, but the traffic toll shot upward in early hours Sunday.

Four persons died near Newark when their car backed into a farm pond and they were trapped in the car.

Multiple-death accidents were reported on the Ohio Turnpike west of Toledo, near Akron and on Interstate 75 near Dayton. Three brothers died near Toledo. The other accidents took two lives each.

At Cincinnati, five persons

Twisters Kill 6 In Italy's North Areas

Winds, Hail Batter New Highway, Hurl Cars Over 300 Feet

ROME (AP) — Tornadoes lashed northern Italy Sunday in the midst of a blistering heat wave, killing at least six persons.

Most of the victims were caught in the sudden howling winds and hailstones four inches in diameter as they drove on Italy's new Superhighway of the Sun in the Parma and Piacenza area. The winds hurled some cars as far as 30 yards.

In Ferrara, the tornadoes ripped off the roofs of dozens of homes. At least 10 persons were injured.

The wind knocked down scores of huge trees at Treviso, east of Venice, injuring 30 persons. The loss of a power line cut all train service between Milan and Bologna.

"It was an inferno," said an employe of a restaurant along the superhighway. "It seemed like the end of the world. In a flash everything turned as black as night."

For the past two weeks, Italy Mediterrean from North Africa. The heat started many fires by spontaneous combustion.

Russian Reunion

2 Brothers Meet U.S. Family

NEW YORK (AP) — Two Russians, left behind when their parents emigrated to the United States 55 years ago, met their six American-born brothers and sisters Saturday night. The party broke up at 4 a.m.

"They were kissing and hugging everyone," said Martin Coven, one of the American brothers. "It didn't matter whether they were members of the family or not."

Samuel Koviansky, their father, came to this country in 1909. His wife and Max and Jacob, then 7 and 9, were to follow the next year. But when Mrs. Koviansky arrived at the ship, she did not have enough money for her sons' passage, so she left them with their Russian grandparents.

Mrs. Koviansky always meant to send for her children, but World War I, the Russian Revolution, and her growing American family interfered. She died in 1947; the father in 1924.

"It was almost like bringing back my mother," said Coven, who has Americanized his name. "She raised the family here as if Jacob and Max were present. They were like living characters in family life."

"We knew what they looked and sounded like through tape recordings, pictures, and letters, but it was my mother's dying wish that we would be able to see our Russian brothers."

Coven, president of a music importing firm, went to the Soviet Union last year to visit his brothers. He tried to see what he could do about getting them to the United States.

"I got an appointment with the head man at the visa bureau and told him the story," Coven said. "He cried, too. He said there was no reason why they shouldn't go."

Max, a musician, and Jacob, a photographer, will return to Russia when their tourist visas expire. They have families of their own there now.

Troops Show 'Old Glory' At Viet Air Base

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — They ran up Old Glory on a pole at this U.S.-South Vietnamese air base Sunday and she rippled crisp and new in the warm breeze.

American servicemen by the hundreds stopped and looked up.

"It's the first time I've ever seen the Stars and Stripes here," said Air Force Sgt. Herbert Minikus of Austin, Tex., who has been in Da Nang eight months. "I did a double take."

Usually it's the flag of South Viet Nam that flies here.

Under an agreement with the Vietnamese government, the United States is permitted to display the flag once a year.

At other times it may be seen only at the U.S. embassy in Saigon, atop U.S. vessels and on the coffins of American servicemen killed in the war.

The flag at Da Nang flew for 10 hours on this 4th of July on a 30-foot pole made for the occasion by the U.S. Air Force.

"We should put it up higher," said Sgt. Charley Stepp of Black Mountain, N.C.

"That way the Viet Cong might be able to see it. We ought to let them know we have a flag."

There were few other indications in Da Nang that American servicemen were celebrating the Fourth of July. U.S. military authorities discouraged gatherings because of the possibility of Viet Cong terrorist incidents.

U.S. Brigade Marks Fourth With Artillery

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The U.S. 173rd Airborne Brigade celebrated the 4th of July Sunday by firing one artillery round for each U.S. state into what is believed to be a Viet Cong-held area.

They went off alphabetically. Pfc. Cetrett Spidle of Birmingham, Ala. fired the first round.

Sniper Held In Honolulu Police Killing

5 Hurt By Rifle Fired By Ex-Mental Patient In Forest

HONOLULU (AP)—A self-described expert rifleman, released from a mental hospital hospital less than five months ago after firing on five persons, was held Sunday as the sniper who killed a Honolulu policeman and wounded five other persons, three of them tourists.

Booked for investigation of murder was Michael Patrick Moeller, 23, a television repairman and Air Force veteran who surrendered to police late Saturday night after tying his white T-shirt to his 30-30 rifle and waving it above his head.

Killed was Motorcycle Patrolman Bradley Kaanana, 25, one of three policemen shot by the sniper from a perch in a dense forest just above the Pali, a scenic lookout five miles northeast of Honolulu.

Officer Steven Burke suffered a leg wound and Patrolman Andrew Uramoto was grazed on the head by a bullet.

The incident began when the sniper, identified by police as

Tours Johnson City

President Visits His Early Home

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson attended services Sunday in the white frame church where he was baptised as a boy, visited his boyhood home here, then took a meandering route back to the LBJ Ranch.

At the recently opened boyhood home, the President and Mrs. Johnson encountered a family from Japan, the first visitors on this Fourth of July.

Other tourists sat outside on a bench while the Johnsons went through the home and inspected the yard.

The First Christian Church was air-conditioned for the first time. Johnson, who in the past has expressed unhappiness over the lack of air-conditioning in churches he attended, generally is credited with footing the bill for the new cooling system. Asked about these reports, the lay minister, Ray Akin, said, "I think there is a suspicion he had a part in it."

In his prayers, Akin asked divine guidance for the President, the vice president and others in authority.

En route from the church to his old home, Johnson, at the wheel of a white station wagon, took a swing around Johnson City, including some blocks with unpaved, dusty streets.

Senya Moriyama, his wife and three children, were touring the Johnson boyhood home when the President and his wife arrived. They said they live in Tokyo and that this is their first visit to this country. Moriyama took full advantage of the occasion by putting his movie camera to work.

The Johnsons were accompanied to the church services by Horace Busby, a presidential assistant.

The Johnsons occupied a second-row pew in the recently refurbished church. Along with other worshippers, they received communion.

The President was dressed in a black business suit and Mrs. Johnson wore a beige suit and a white hat with a brim.

Four Treated At Hospital After Fireworks Injuries

Three area adults and a Wellsville girl were treated Saturday night and Sunday at City Hospital for injuries from fireworks.

Mrs. Wilma Boughner of Huston Rd. was released after treatment for a cut on the lower right arm and two cuts on the leg. The injury was inflicted about 11 Saturday night while she was a patron of the new Patterson-Wetzel Laundry on St. Clair Ave. near the former Grant St. School, officers said.

Mrs. Boughner said a firecracker was hurled in the door and landed on her dress. She said she brushed it away quickly, but the blast of its nearby explosion cut her arm and leg. Patrolman Jack Strobel investigated.

Charles R. Smith, 1923 Smithfield St., was treated at 3:40 a. m. Sunday for powder burns of the left leg and left thigh when a firecracker was thrown from an auto between 13th and 14th Sts. in Wellsville.

David Stoakes, 1070 St. George St., was treated yesterday afternoon for multiple abrasions of the right thumb and right thigh when a firecracker exploded while being lighted.

2 Brothers Meet U.S. Family

NEW YORK (AP) — Two Russians, left behind when their parents emigrated to the United States 55 years ago, met their six American-born brothers and sisters Saturday night. The party broke up at 4 a.m.

"They were kissing and hugging everyone," said Martin Coven, one of the American brothers. "It didn't matter whether they were members of the family or not."

Samuel Koviansky, their father, came to this country in 1909. His wife and Max and Jacob, then 7 and 9, were to follow the next year. But when Mrs. Koviansky arrived at the ship, she did not have enough money for her sons' passage, so she left them with their Russian grandparents.

Pace Ahead Of Holiday's 1964 Count

Road Deaths May Pass 590 Mark For Lengthy Weekend

By The Associated Press

Traffic accident deaths on the nation's highways continued to mount Sunday and safety experts expressed concern at the fatality rate which could set a record for an Independence Day weekend.

By Sunday afternoon, 271 traffic deaths had been recorded by The Associated Press. In addition, there were 10 boating fatalities and 31 drownings.

The highway death count began at 6 p.m. Friday.

The National Safety Council said the pace was ahead of last year's fatality record for the Independence Day observance.

Howard Pyle, council president, said, "If traffic fatalities continue at the present rate they will exceed not only the recent Memorial Day total of 490, but also last year's fourth of July toll of 510 — highest on record for a three-day observance of the holiday."

The council has estimated that between 470 and 570 persons would lose their lives in highway crashes.

In a corresponding summer weekend period of 78 hours not involving a holiday, a total of 435 deaths were reported on the nation's streets and highways. The Associated Press, for its own comparison, made a tally of traffic deaths for the non-holiday period from 6 p.m. Friday, June 18 through midnight Monday, June 21. The toll was 363.

Multiple deaths in crashes boosted the current curent.

Five persons in one automobile died in a collision with a bus Saturday near Waterloo, N.Y. Three young brothers were killed in a collision Saturday on the Ohio Turnpike.

Ohio Counts 28 Fatalities On Weekend

By The Associated Press

Ohio's holiday traffic toll soared toward a tragic new record Sunday, surpassing safety officials' grim predictions more than 40 hours ahead of time.

The latest Associated Press tabulation showed 28 killed in traffic since the July 4th holiday weekend began Friday at sundown.

The rate averaged a death every two hours. Ohio's toll led the nation.

State safety officials had predicted 24 persons would lose their lives on Ohio streets and highways over the 78-hour weekend.

Twenty-one died in traffic last year during the three-day July 4th holiday.

The total tabulation showed four other deaths by drowning and one from miscellaneous cause.

Fifteen were reported dead by late Saturday night, but the traffic toll shot upward in early hours Sunday.

Four persons died near Newark when their car backed into a farm pond and they were trapped in the car.

Multiple-death accidents were reported on the Ohio Turnpike west of Toledo, near Akron and on Interstate 75 near Dayton. Three brothers died near Toledo. The other accidents took two lives each.

At Cincinnati, five persons

Sniper Held In Honolulu Police Killing

5 Hurt By Rifle Fired By Ex-Mental Patient In Forest

HONOLULU (AP)—A self-described expert rifleman, released from a mental hospital hospital less than five months ago after firing on five persons, was held Sunday as the sniper who killed a Honolulu policeman and wounded five other persons, three of them tourists.

Booked for investigation of murder was Michael Patrick Moeller, 23, a television repairman and Air Force veteran who surrendered to police late Saturday night after tying his white T-shirt to his 30-30 rifle and waving it above his head.

Killed was Motorcycle Patrolman Bradley Kaanana, 25, one of three policemen shot by the sniper from a perch in a dense forest just above the Pali, a scenic lookout five miles northeast of Honolulu.

Officer Steven Burke suffered a leg wound and Patrolman Andrew Uramoto was grazed on the head by a bullet.

The incident began when the sniper, identified by police as

Tours Johnson City

President Visits His Early Home

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson attended services Sunday in the white frame church where he was baptised as a boy, visited his boyhood home here, then took a meandering route back to the LBJ Ranch.

At the recently opened boyhood home, the President and Mrs. Johnson encountered a family from Japan, the first visitors on this Fourth of July.

Other tourists sat outside on a bench while the Johnsons went through the home and inspected the yard.

The First Christian Church was air-conditioned for the first time. Johnson, who in the past has expressed unhappiness over the lack of air-conditioning in churches he attended, generally is credited with footing the bill for the new cooling system. Asked about these reports, the lay minister, Ray Akin, said, "I think there is a suspicion he had a part in it."

In his prayers, Akin asked divine guidance for the President, the vice president and others in authority.

En route from the church to his old home, Johnson, at the wheel of a white station wagon, took a swing around Johnson City, including some blocks with unpaved, dusty streets.

Senya Moriyama, his wife and three children, were touring the Johnson boyhood home when the President and his wife arrived. They said they live in Tokyo and that this is their first visit to this country. Moriyama took full advantage of the occasion by putting his movie camera to work.

The Johnsons were accompanied to the church services by Horace Busby, a presidential assistant.

The Johnsons occupied a second-row pew in the recently refurbished church. Along with other worshippers, they received communion.

The President was dressed in a black business suit and Mrs. Johnson wore a beige suit and a white hat with a brim.

Briton Says UN Viet Bid 'Premature'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Britain's ambassador to the United States said Sunday it is too soon to consider referring the Viet Nam problem to the United Nations.

Proposals for an immediate appeal to the United Nations have been made by some senators and other Americans critical of President Johnson's policy. Sir Patrick Dean was asked about them on ABC's television-radio program "Issues and Answers.

He replied: "I am afraid that it is premature. I think that it is very desirable it should go to the United Nations and I wouldn't be at all surprised to see it get there in the end. But unless there is some general willingness on behalf of the parties concerned to do so, I doubt if the United Nations is in a position to contribute very much.

"To put such a controversial issue, where the interests of the great powers are very much at stake, into an organization at this moment might be counter-productive."

The Congress of the U.S. must meet annually on Jan. 3 unless it has, by law, appointed a different day.

Robert Kennedy Earns Top Rating In Rapids

DINOSAUR QUARRY, Utah (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy looked like a veteran as he conquered the rapids in a one-man kayak Sunday in an exciting finale to a family float down the Yampa and Green rivers in Dinosaur National Monument.

"He was a master," said skiing friend Willie Schaeffler whose 15-foot kayak the New York senator used to navigate the Schoolboy and Englesby rapids of the Green.

"I've never seen anybody go through such heavy rapids without tipping over," Schaeffler said. "He got the feel of it within five minutes."

An enthusiastic sportsman, this was the first time Kennedy had floated down a river.

"It got a little easier after I got used to it," he smiled.

"The whole trip was so much fun!" Mrs. Kennedy said after the three-raft expedition docked at this cache of dinosaur bones in eastern Utah.

"It was just too short," she added.

The party started out on the Yampa River in northwest Colorado Friday.

The Kennedy's and five of their nine children made the trip along with James Whittaker, his wife and two children, two young friends of the Kennedy children, Schaeffler and a magazine reporter.

Whittaker, the first American to reach the top of Mt. Everest, said he spotted some good potential climbing challenges in the river canyon which rises as much as 2,000 feet in places.

The party visited briefly at the National Park Service quarry, then drove to Vernal, Utah, to catch an airplane to Salt Lake City.

The senator said he planned to stay overnight there and fly to New York City in the morning.

Everybody had a good suntan, said they were extremely happy about the trip, and not at all tired.

Pact Insures Sea Port For Land Nations

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Fifty-eight countries will adopt an agreement this week which guarantees duty-free access to the sea for the goods of landlocked nations.

About 30 of the delegations attending a U.N. conference on the subject have indicated they will sign the agreement Wednesday. Other participating nations are expected to sign soon.

The pact goes into effect when ratified by any two landlocked countries and two maritime states through which the goods will pass.

The accord permits a maritime state to make a small, non-discriminatory charge to cover the cost of administering the traffic through its territory. It also prescribes that rates for transporting the goods by train, truck, barge or boat shall be "reasonable."

The agreement calls for "free, uninterrupted and continuous traffic in transit" but says the goods may be unloaded, broken down into parcels, reloaded and warehoused along the way.

The pact is to stay in force in wartime so far as "the rights and duties of belligerents and neutrals" permit. But it gives a maritime state an out "in case of an emergency jeopardizing its political existence."

A maritime state can keep out such goods as arms, narcotics, diseased animals and pest-ridden plants, and "persons whose admission into its territories is forbidden, on grounds of public morals, public health or security."

Briton Says UN Viet Bid 'Premature'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Britain's ambassador to the United States said Sunday it is too soon to consider referring the Viet Nam problem to the United Nations.

Proposals for an immediate appeal to the United Nations have been made by some senators and other Americans critical of President Johnson's policy. Sir Patrick Dean was asked about them on ABC's television-radio program "Issues and Answers."

He replied: "I am afraid that it is premature. I think that it is very desirable it should go to the United Nations and I wouldn't be at all surprised to see it get there in the end. But unless there is some general willingness on behalf of the parties concerned to do so, I doubt if the United Nations is in a position to contribute very much.

"To put such a controversial issue, where the interests of the great powers are very much at stake, into an organization at this moment might be counter-productive."

The Congress of the U.S. must meet annually on Jan. 3 unless it has, by law, appointed a different day.

Robert Kennedy Earns Top Rating In Rapids

DINOSAUR QUARRY, Utah (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy looked like a veteran as he conquered the rapids in a one-man kayak Sunday in an exciting finale to a family float down the Yampa and Green rivers in Dinosaur National Monument.

"He was a master," said skiing friend Willie Schaeffler whose 15-foot kayak the New York senator used to navigate the Schoolboy and Englesby rapids of the Green.

"I've never seen anybody go through such heavy rapids without tipping over," Schaeffler said. "He got the feel of it within five minutes."

An enthusiastic sportsman, this was the first time Kennedy had floated down a river.

"It got a little easier after I got used to it," he smiled.

"The whole trip was so much fun!" Mrs. Kennedy said after the three-raft expedition docked at this cache of dinosaur bones in eastern Utah.

"It was just too short," she added.

The party started out on the Yampa River in northwest Colorado Friday.

The Kennedy's and five of their nine children made the trip along with James Whittaker, his wife and two children, two young friends of the Kennedy children, Schaeffler and a magazine reporter.

Whittaker, the first American to reach the top of Mt. Everest, said he spotted some good potential climbing challenges in the river canyon which rises as much as 2,000 feet in places.

The party visited briefly at the National Park Service quarry, then drove to Vernal, Utah, to catch an airplane to Salt Lake City.

The senator said he planned to stay overnight there and fly to New York City in the morning.

Everybody had a good suntan, said they were extremely happy about the trip, and not at all tired.

Pact Insures Sea Port For Land Nations

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Fifty-eight countries will adopt an agreement this week which guarantees duty-free access to the sea for the goods of landlocked nations.

About 30 of the delegations attending a U.N. conference on the subject have indicated they will sign the agreement Wednesday. Other participating nations are expected to sign soon.

The pact goes into effect when ratified by any two landlocked countries and two maritime states through which the goods will pass.

The accord permits a maritime state to make a small, non-discriminatory charge to cover the cost of administering the traffic through its territory. It also prescribes that rates for transporting the goods by train, truck, barge or boat shall be "reasonable."

The agreement calls for "free, uninterrupted and continuous traffic in transit" but says the goods may be unloaded, broken down into parcels, reloaded and warehoused along the way.

The pact is to stay in force in wartime so far as "the rights and duties of belligerents and neutrals" permit. But it gives a maritime state an out "in case of an emergency jeopardizing its political existence."

A maritime state can keep out such goods as arms, narcotics, diseased animals and pest-ridden plants, and "persons whose admission into its territories is forbidden, on grounds of public morals, public health or security."

Let Freedom Ring!

The history of American freedom is a dreary recital of efforts to undermine it, compromise it and destroy it outright. Freedom survives because it was protected, not because it was never molested.

When a little band of courageous men pledged their lives, fortunes and sacred honor in 1776 to the principles of the Declaration of Independence, they did not sully their high-mindedness with mental reservations.

The reservations came later when politicians, fixers, trimmers, compromisers and the half-hearted went to work on the first of the self-evident truths—that all men are created equal, endowed with unalienable rights by their Creator.

That was too rich for the blood of privileged colonists who believed all men were created equal but some were created more equal than others.

By the time compromisers and principle-splitters finished the Constitutional Convention in the early autumn of 1787 they had so far forgotten about the quality of men that their new Constitution had to be amended by the 1st Congress to spell out the things no "Power establishment" ever would be permitted to do in the United States.

THAT WAS THE Bill of Rights. Nonbelievers in its provisions have been fighting them ever since. They are fighting them now. They never weary of this because they believe if they continue to fight long enough they can destroy freedom for all the people they disagree with.

But this would avail them nothing, because they would have to exterminate one another, which was where they stood in 1776 when the question was whether to stick together or hang separately by order of King George III.

THE DECLARATION of Independence was only a resolution. It was never given popular approval, nor submitted for popular approval.

It could not have won popular approval. To this day, it is a bitter jest that a sure way to stir the wrath of homegrown oppressors is to tell them what the Declaration of Independence says without forewarning them they are in the presence of this historic charter of human freedom.

"That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed."

This was the charter of government incorporated in the charter of human freedom in America. This was the keystone of a then startling new concept of popular sovereignty which made the American revolution the most dynamic force in history for men's release from bondage.

It still is—or it could be.

The trouble is that the ring of freedom has been muffled by compromises, reservations, misgivings and misapprehensions.

This isn't what the Founding Fathers had in mind when they said the rights of men were "unalienable."

It isn't what free men mean today when they think of freedom.

Paying The Price Of Progress

On the bland assumption that President Johnson generally gets what he wants, the United States will underwrite the cost of developing a supersonic airliner. The President, himself, announced this while swearing in William F. McKee as new chief of Federal Aviation Agency.

If the announcement sounds familiar, it is because the same project was blanketed into the White House contingency fund that was a part of the executive budget for the current year announced last January.

Competition for design already had been narrowed down to four companies and a high-level study of the whole matter recommending action had been made and published.

It already was obvious the United States intended to shoot the works on a supersonic airliner.

And it is obvious that the United States needs a new supersonic commercial airliner no more than it needs a flying submarine. Why, then, is there so much talk about it?

The explanation is simple: Because Britain and France are talking about having a 2,000 m.p.h. plane ready by 1970.

The United States needs a still-faster commercial aircraft for the same reason it needs to go to the moon: Because the Soviet Union has threatened to get to the moon first.

Were it not for competition, the United States would be happy with the subsonic planes its airlines and most of the world's airlines are still paying for.

It would be happy to stay on earth and make rhymes about the moon.

Competition is the spice of life. The rich efficient survive, and the inefficient go down the drain with the bathwater. Dog eat dog and devil take the hindmost; that's the idea.

It isn't easy to think of anyplace anyone wants to go at a speed of 2,000 m.p.h. and impossible to think of anyone who really wants to go to the moon, but away we go in a flurry of billion-dollar bills.

They're the ones with the picture of St. Nicholas on them. You see 'em all the time.

It Depends On The Women

One of the curiosities of legislative procedure is the accidental law that slips through and has the same force as the planned statutes.

The Wall Street Journal reports that one of the most far-reaching laws ever passed—the law that went into effect July 2 barring discrimination in employment because of sex — was accidental.

It was proposed during debate on the 1964 civil rights bill as a gesture of mischief by Rep. Howard Smith, D-Va., in the hope of stalling a vote on the bill.

But Congress passed the bill, including the no-sex-discrimination joker. It did not even hold a hearing on this momentous addition.

When cases pop up in the courts, as they almost certainly will, judges will have no recorded intent of Congress to guide them.

There will be nothing to go by other than the word "sex" at the end of a list of causes of discrimination that are legally barred.

On the face of it, men will be legally entitled to ask for jobs previously monopolized by women, in the same way women will be entitled to put in their bids for jobs traditionally held by men. There shall be no discrimination in employment based on sex; that now is the law.

The Wall Street Journal, in a roundup of possible results, found many special problems, such as employers who formerly hired women for jobs requiring unusual dexterity and now will be required to hire men who can show similar dexterity.

It refers to the possibility that airlines may have to hire women pilots; that trucking companies may have to hire women drivers. The possibilities are endless.

Whether these potential complications will materialize, of course, depends on people — mostly on women. If they go after jobs formerly held by men aggressively and their claims get into court, setting legal precedents, the accidental inclusion of sex in the new law could become its most far-reaching provision.

Safe And Sane

By Truman Twill

Twice blessed are those old enough to remember when firecrackers sizzled and popped in this great land.

Do-gooders finally outlawed them because reckless kids were blowing off fingers and blinding themselves.

They were too much fun to be put up with by the faction that opposes anything people enjoy because it must be bad for them.

Firecrackers were annoying to people who were sensitive to noise.

They scared horses, chickens, cats, dogs and pet birds out of a year's growth.

They made it impossible to sleep late the morning of July 4.

It was a firm belief among the cautious that they were a prime cause of tetanus, just as it still is a firm belief that every dog bite is going to bring on rabies.

The prices the "merchants of death" used to get for the things were outrageous. A kid could blow $5, if he could scrape that much together, and still not have enough to last from dawn till dark, unless he paced himself.

By twilight, every dog in the area was cowering in a corner of the barn, or in a thicket at the edge of town. The cats were under the bed or on the roof.

Old ladies were stretched out on their sofas with water bottles and lavender smelling salts.

Even the goldfish had had it; they were flapping their fins in slow motion in the security of their little water castles.

The lawn was peppered with cardboard and red tissue.

The old man, having picked up the spirit of the occasion along the way, was flushed with excitement and exercising his prerogative of being security officer, showing the fry the best way to ignite fuses.

Uncle Charley, who always was a reckless devil, was explaining the technique of packing a firecracker inside a length of gas pipe with the ends packed tight with dirt. He once killed a horse this way, he boasted.

Uncle Charley had other tricks that didn't bear description and which he was forbidden to impart, thus making certain they would be lost to posterity.

When it was all over, rocket sticks were festooning the trees and the local doctors had exhausted their supplies of bandages.

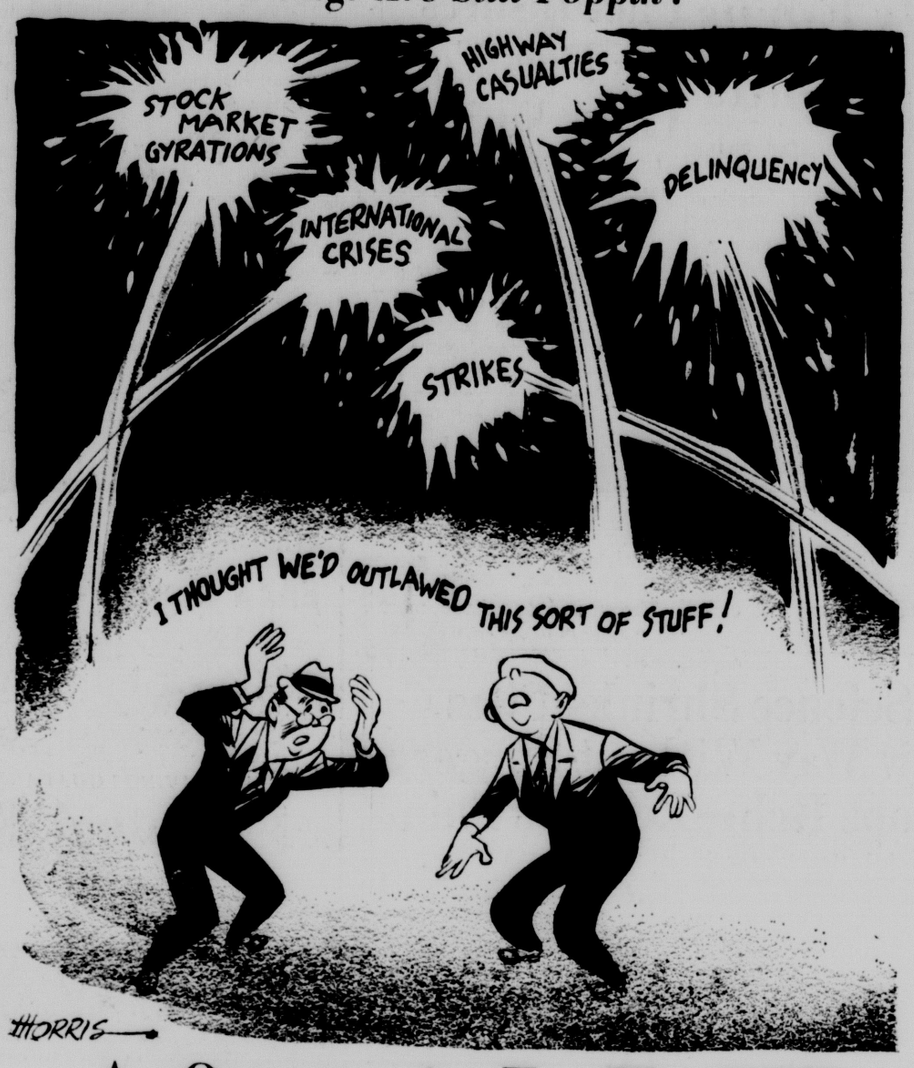

It had been a grand and glorious Fourth!

Onward and upward blocs adopted resolutions that fireworks should be outlawed instantly, and any kid who had hoarded a string of the things head for the open country to set them off.

The Fourth of July, everybody said, had to be made safe and sane—not grand and glorious, just safe and sane.

So now we kill hundreds and maim thousands in auto crashes, instead. Varoom! Screech! Thud! Crunch! But we eliminated firecrackers.

Things Are Still Poppin'!

An Opportunity For The GOP

By David Lawrence

There's more than meets the eye in the wistful complaint by Ray Bliss, Republican national chairman, that fund-raising by "splinter" groups could make it harder for the Republican National Committee to raise money.

David Lawrence

Actually, Mr. Bliss may have the cart before the horse. There's usually no difficulty in raising money for political campaigns when the people feel that their grievances are going to be dealt with by the party seeking their support. The problem the Republican managers face today is that the party leaders or spokesmen have not convinced the country that, if the Republican party did come into majority power, it would heed the voices of discontent.

There is, moreover, at present a noticeable absence of organized expression by the Republican party on the main issues of the day. Those who deserted the party in the 1964 election campaign show no signs of remorse.

Despite all the political debate since last November, the average citizen doesn't know yet what the Republican party as a whole stands for and what it seeks to do.

Today some of the biggest problems before the nation are being neglected by both parties. The largest single issue in America is the war on crime. People in the big cities find it dangerous to go out of doors at night. Even apartment houses, with lots of tenants, have been the scene of robberies as well as rapes. The story is the same in all big cities.

THE CHIEF TROUBLE is that there are not enough policemen in most of the communities to give the people adequate protection. The federal government has neglected to do anything about the problem except to urge that special studies be made. Meanwhile, the situation goes from bad to worse. Crime rates are at a record high.

There are other issues which neither political party is tackling. One is the misuse of public funds. There are, for instance, scandals in certain phases of the anti-poverty program. Congress itself has permitted all sorts of "conflicts of interest" to be tolerated, as is revealed by the findings in the Bobby Baker case.

Throughout the United States there are many inequities felt by the citizen, particularly in the field of employment. Persons who are qualified and willing to work are being discriminated against, not because of race or color but because they haven't joined or don't wish to join a union. Also, many individuals are victims of the violence which frequently envelops strikes.

AN OPPORTUNITY presents itself, too, for the Republicans to call for a removal of the barriers to free enterprise in America and for the maintenance of a sound fiscal position by the government. The spending policies of the last few years have put the federal budget continuously out of balance, and indications are that an inflationary era is in prospect unless extravagant spending by government can be checked.

The cost of living is rising, and the purchasing power of the dollar is declining. The economic situation is often described as "booming," but there are obviously many weaknesses in the employment picture throughout the country.

All these matters are contributing to a widespread unrest. An opposition party has the responsibility and the obligation to expose blunders in government and to publicize the grievances of the people. Once this is done, there will be little trouble about raising money for political campaigns.

Citizen groups with particular causes to advocate are not to be frowned upon. They perform a useful service in stirring up interest in public affairs on concrete issues. Recent criticism of such organizations is somewhat puzzling.

IT SEEMS to depend on what kind of association happens to emerge. Thus, when the "Republicans for Progress" was established to advocate the liberal side of Republicanism, no protests were heard. Yet, when the Free Society Association, started by Goldwater supporters, was announced, it was immediately subjected to severe criticism as being a barrier to the raising of money by the Republican National Committee.

What the Republican party needs to do more than anything else is to expose fully what's happening in government today, particularly in Congress, which is ruled by a rubber-stamp majority. In the congressional elections next year, the people will have a chance to express themselves against much of the loosely worded and inequitable legislation that will have been pressured through Congress by the big Democratic majority.

There is plenty for an opposition party to talk about, and there will be ample opportunity for it to raise funds from the protesting citizens once there is a consensus among the voters that the party out of power might really do a better job than the party now in office.

More Light On Driving

By Tom Cotton

COLUMBUS

Driving used to be so simple. The guy in front steps on the brake and you see a red light. He steps on the gas and you watch him pull away. What could be easier?

But it won't be that way for long if current tests being conducted by Ohio State University researchers are any indication.

FOR THE past year experimental rear-end signal light systems for automobiles have been given rigorous tests by engineers from the university's systems research group in cooperation with the Transportation Engineering Experiment Station.

They are beginning to test experimental light systems at night on Interstate 71. With Dr. Thomas H. Rockwell as chief investigator, the group will evaluate two types of rear-end signaling methods—a tri-light system using red, green and amber lights, and a more complex AID (Acceleration Information Display) system using a battery of 10 red and 10 green lights.

Volunteer drivers will operate a specially instrumented automobile behind a car bearing the experimental light systems.

The lead car is attached to the following car by a "mechanical yo-yo" which automatically reels and unreels a thin wire and measures headway and relative speed between the two vehicles.

DURING THE tests the lead car will go through regular driving maneuvers, ranging from gentle coasting to violent braking at speeds between 35 and 65 miles an hour.

Driver reactions and movements of the following car are recorded automatically.

With the tri-light system, the vehicle displays a green light when the accelerator is depressed, an amber light when the driver is touching neither brake nor accelerator, and a red light when the driver is braking.

The AID system presents even more information. The battery of green lights represents rate of acceleration — showing one green for gentle increase in speed to a full line of lights for high-speed acceleration.

The red lights will give similar information to the following driver-showing one red light for coasting to a full battery of 10 for a violet slam on the brakes.

Independence Day

By John N. Adams

An Analysis After 189 Years

In the 189 years since the Continental Congress formally cut the last tie with Great Britain, changes that have taken place in this nation have more than fulfilled the fondest dreams of those intrepid Founding Fathers who risked their lives by signing the Declaration of Independence.

While Independence Day is celebrated as the birthday of our great nation and is indeed our greatest secular holiday, the Continental Congress actually approved the resolution of independence on July 2. However, the document to justify this momentous decision was not sanctioned until July 4, 1776.

Of congress's action, John Adams, one of the more perspicacious and prolific penmen of the day, on July 3, 1776, wrote:

"YESTERDAY the greatest question was decided which ever was debated in America; and a greater perhaps never was, nor will be, decided among men. A resolution was passed without one dissenting colony, that those United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent States . . . and of right ought to have, full power to make war, conclude peace, establish commerce, and to do all other acts and things which other States may rightfully do.

"You will see in a few days a Declaration setting forth the causes which have impelled us to this mighty revolution, and the reasons which will justify it in the sight of God and man."

To erase suspicion that he was being carried away by his enthusiasm, hopes and ambitions for the course on which this declaration embarked the colonies, Adams added:

"A plan of confederation will be taken up in a few days. You will think me transported with enthusiasm, but I am not. I am well aware of the toil, and blood, and treasure, that it will cost us to maintain this declaration, and support, and defend these States."

IN ANOTHER passage, his foresight is shown with the words:

"Yet, through all the gloom, I can see the rays of ravishing light and glory. I can say that the end is more than worth all the means, and that prosperity will triumph in that day's transaction, even though we should rue it, which I trust in God we shall not. . . ."

The letter went on to predict that "the second day of July 1776 will be the most memorable epoch in the history of America. I am apt to believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival. It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires, and illuminations from one end of this continent to the other, from this time forward forever more."

The July 2 date however was quickly forgotten and the first anniversary of the declaration was observed July 4th at Philadelphia by the adjournment of congress, a ceremonial dinner, bonfires, the ringing of bells and fireworks.

The custom spread to other cities and states in succeeding years and parades, patriotic oratory, military displays and fireworks were the order of the day. Until recent years it was not uncommon for families, [redacted] the day. Until recent years it was not uncommon for families, flags in hand, to watch or march in parades, enjoy picnic outings in the parks, listen to statesmen deliver patriotic speeches, watch amateur athletics and pageants and wind up the day at a fireworks display.

While our forefathers warned of some of the dangers as well as the blessings of independence it's doubtful that they saw all the attending evils or threats to our national and individual liberties.

WE DRIVE at breakneck speeds across country and in one long holiday weekend more Americans are slaughtered on our highways than have been killed in battle in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic.

We bemoan the "needless killing" of our boys fighting to preserve the freedom of independent nations but go on our reckless way heedless of the safety of others or ourrselves on the highways.

Our national prosperity is the greatest the world ever has known and far surpasses the fondest dreams of our forefathers yet our Great Society throws into sharper contrast the material and spiritual poverty in which millions of our fellow Americans still live.

Each economic gain has brought more and more social problems and promises still greater problems for the future.

The debasement of our national currency with base metals substituted for gold and silver may be symbolic of our moral decay.

WHEN LEADERS in high political office are more self-seeking than serving; when the refuse to investigate cor tion in high places and seek ap- pease the public with federal handouts for votes, it's time to drop the "hear-no-evil, see-no-evil, speak-no-evil" monkey credo and adopt a code of morality for all political office-seekers.

"There are more instances of the abridgement of the freedom of the people by gradual and silent encroachments of those in power than by violent and sudden usurpation," James Madsion said in a speech in 1788. It is as true today as it was then.

In a two-volume work, "The Later Roman Empire," published last year, A. H. M. Jones, a Cambridge classical scholar concludes that that empire fell not because the barbarians overwhelmed the empire militarily, but because their increasing pressure in the fourth and fifth centuries ultimately required a military establishment, bureaucracy and level of taxation that the economic and social fabric of the empire could not support.

In other words that the Roman empire was better at governing than producing.

HISTORIANS centuries hence will assay the American civilization to determine whether or not we created an opposite and deadlier imbalance.

Perhaps the late Bernard M. Baruch, in his keen insight into the affairs of men and nations, gave us the answer in a speech he delivered in 1944. He said:

"America has never forgotten — and will never forget — the noble things that brought her into being and that light upon her path — the path that was entered upon only 150 years ago. . . .How young she is! It will be centuries before she will adopt that maturity of custom — the clothing of the grave —that some people believe she already it fitted for."

Let Freedom Ring!

The history of American freedom is a dreary recital of efforts to undermine it, compromise it and destroy it outright. Freedom survives because it was protected, not because it was never molested.

When a little band of courageous men pledged their lives, fortunes and sacred honor in 1776 to the principles of the Declaration of Independence, they did not sully their high-mindedness with mental reservations.

The reservations came later when politicians, fixers, trimmers, compromisers and the half-hearted went to work on the first of the self-evident truths—that all men are created equal, endowed with unalienable rights by their Creator.

That was too rich for the blood of privileged colonists who believed all men were created equal but some were created more equal than others.

By the time compromisers and principle-splitters finished the Constitutional Convention in the early autumn of 1787 they had so far forgotten about the quality of men that their new Constitution had to be amended by the 1st Congress to spell out the things no "Power establishment" ever would be permitted to do in the United States.

THAT WAS THE Bill of Rights. Nonbelievers in its provisions have been fighting them ever since. They are fighting them now. They never weary of this because they believe if they continue to fight long enough they can destroy freedom for all the people they disagree with.

But this would avail them nothing, because they would have to exterminate one another, which was where they stood in 1776 when the question was whether to stick together or hang separately by order of King George III.

THE DECLARATION of Independence was only a resolution. It was never given popular approval, nor submitted for popular approval.

It could not have won popular approval. To this day, it is a bitter jest that a sure way to stir the wrath of homegrown oppressors is to tell them what the Declaration of Independence says without forewarning them they are in the presence of this historic charter of human freedom.

"That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed."

This was the charter of government incorporated in the charter of human freedom in America. This was the keystone of a then startling new concept of popular sovereignty which made the American revolution the most dynamic force in history for men's release from bondage.

It still is—or it could be.

The trouble is that the ring of freedom has been muffled by compromises, reservations, misgivings and misapprehensions.

This isn't what the Founding Fathers had in mind when they said the rights of men were "unalienable."

It isn't what free men mean today when they think of freedom.

Paying The Price Of Progress

On the bland assumption that President Johnson generally gets what he wants, the United States will underwrite the cost of developing a supersonic airliner. The President, himself, announced this while swearing in William F. McKee as new chief of Federal Aviation Agency.

If the announcement sounds familiar, it is because the same project was blanketed into the White House contingency fund that was a part of the executive budget for the current year announced last January.

Competition for design already had been narrowed down to four companies and a high-level study of the whole matter recommending action had been made and published.

It already was obvious the United States intended to shoot the works on a supersonic airliner.

And it is obvious that the United States needs a new supersonic commercial airliner no more than it needs a flying submarine. Why, then, is there so much talk about it?

The explanation is simple:. Because Britain and France are talking about having a 2,000 m.p.h. plane ready by 1970.

The United States needs a still-faster commercial aircraft for the same reason it needs to go to the moon: Because the Soviet Union has threatened to get to the moon first.

Were it not for competition, the United States would be happy with the subsonic planes its airlines and most of the world's airlines are still paying for.

It would be happy to stay on earth and make rhymes about the moon.

Competition is the spice of life. The rich efficient survive, and the inefficient go down the drain with the bathwater. Dog eat dog and devil take the hindmost; that's the idea.

It isn't easy to think of anyplace anyone wants to go at a speed of 2,000 m.p.h. and impossible to think of anyone who really wants to go to the moon, but away we go in a flurry of billion-dollar bills.

They're the ones with the picture of St. Nicholas on them. You see 'em all the time.

It Depends On The Women

One of the curiosities of legislative procedure is the accidental law that slips through and has the same force as the planned statutes.

The Wall Street Journal reports that one of the most far-reaching laws ever passed—the law that went into effect July 2 barring discrimination in employment because of sex — was accidental.

It was proposed during debate on the 1964 civil rights bill as a gesture of mischief by Rep. Howard Smith, D-Va., in the hope of stalling a vote on the bill.

But Congress passed the bill, including the no-sex-discrimination joker. It did not even hold a hearing on this momentous addition.

When cases pop up in the courts, as they almost certainly will, judges will have no recorded intent of Congress to guide them.

There will be nothing to go by other than the word "sex" at the end of a list of causes of discrimination that are legally barred.

On the face of it, men will be legally entitled to ask for jobs previously monopolized by women, in the same way women will be entitled to put in their bids for jobs traditionally held by men. There shall be no discrimination in employment based on sex; that now is the law.

The Wall Street Journal, in a roundup of possible results, found many special problems, such as employers who formerly hired women for jobs requiring unusual dexterity and now will be required to hire men who can show similar dexterity.

It refers to the possibility that airlines may have to hire women pilots; that trucking companies may have to hire women drivers. The possibilities are endless.

Whether these potential complications will materialize, of course, depends on people — mostly on women. If they go after jobs formerly held by men aggressively and their claims get into court, setting legal precedents, the accidential inclusion of sex in the new law could become its most far-reaching provision.

Safe And Sane

By Truman Twill

Twice blessed are those old enough to remember when firecrackers sizzled and popped in this great land.

Do-gooders finally outlawed them because reckless kids were blowing off fingers and blinding themselves.

They were too much fun to be put up with by the faction that opposes anything people enjoy because it must be bad for them.

Firecrackers were annoying to people who were sensitive to noise.

They scared horses, chickens, cats, dogs and pet birds out of a year's growth.

They made it impossible to sleep late the morning of July 4.

It was a firm belief among the cautious that they were a prime cause of tetanus, just as it still is a firm belief that every dog bite is going to bring on rabies.

The prices the "merchants of death" used to get for the things were outrageous. A kid could blow $5, if he could scrape that much together, and still not have enough to last from dawn till dark, unless he paced himself.

By twilight, every dog in the area was cowering in a corner of the barn, or in a thicket at the edge of town. The cats were under the bed or on the roof.

Old ladies were stretched out on their sofas with water bottles and lavender smelling salts.

Even the goldfish had had it; they were flapping their fins in slow motion in the security of their little water castles.

The lawn was peppered with cardboard and red tissue.

The old man, having picked up the spirit of the occasion along the way, was flushed with excitement and exercising his prerogative of being security officer, showing the fry the best way to ignite fuses.

Uncle Charley, who always was a reckless devil, was explaining the technique of packing a firecracker inside a length of gas pipe with the ends packed tight with dirt. He once killed a horse this way, he boasted.

Uncle Charley had other tricks that didn't bear description and which he was forbidden to impart, thus making certain they would be lost to posterity.

When it was all over, rocket sticks were festooning the trees and the local doctors had exhausted their supplies of bandages.

It had been a grand and glorious Fourth!

Onward and upward blocs adopted resolutions that fireworks should be outlawed instantly, and any kid who had hoarded a string of the things head for the open country to set them off.

The Fourth of July, everybody said, had to be made safe and sane—not grand and glorious, just safe and sane.

So now we kill hundreds and maim thousands in auto crashes, instead. Va-room! Screech! Thud! Crunch! But we eliminated firecrackers.

Things Are Still Poppin'!

An Opportunity For The GOP

By David Lawrence

There's more than meets the eye in the wistful complaint by Ray Bliss, Republican national chairman, that fund-raising by "splinter" groups could make it harder for the Republican National Committee to raise money.

David Lawrence

Actually, Mr. Bliss may have the cart before the horse. There's usually no difficulty in raising money for political campaigns when the people feel that their grievances are going to be dealt with by the party seeking their support. The problem the Republican managers face today is that the party leaders or spokesmen have not convinced the country that, if the Republican party did come into majority power, it would heed the voices of discontent.

There is, moreover, at present a noticeable absence of organized expression by the Republican party on the main issues of the day. Those who deserted the party in the 1964 election campaign show no signs of remorse.

Despite all the political debate since last November, the average citizen doesn't know yet what the Republican party as a whole stands for and what it seeks to do.

Today some of the biggest problems before the nation are being neglected by both parties. The largest single issue in America is the war on crime. People in the big cities find it dangerous to go out of doors at night. Even apartment houses, with lots of tenants, have been the scene of robberies as well as rapes. The story is the same in all big cities.

THE CHIEF TROUBLE is that there are not enough policemen in most of the communities to give the people adequate protection. The federal government has neglected to do anything about the problem except to urge that special studies be made. Meanwhile, the situation goes from bad to worse. Crime rates are at a record high.

There are other issues which neither political party is tackling. One is the misuse of public funds. There are, for instance, scandals in certain phases of the anti-poverty program. Congress itself has permitted all sorts of "conflicts of interest" to be tolerated, as is revealed by the findings in the Bobby Baker case.

Throughout the United States there are many inequities felt by the citizen, particularly in the field of employment. Persons who are qualified and willing to work are being discriminated against, not because of race or color but because they haven't joined or don't wish to join a union. Also, many individuals are victims of the violence which frequently envelops strikes.

AN OPPORTUNITY presents itself, too, for the Republicans to call for a removal of the barriers to free enterprise in America and for the maintenance of a sound fiscal position by the government. The spending policies of the last few years have put the federal budget continuously out of balance, and indications are that an inflationary era is in prospect unless extravagant spending by government can be checked.

The cost of living is rising, and the purchasing power of the dollar is declining. The economic situation is often described as "booming," but there are obviously many weaknesses in the employment picture throughout the country.

All these matters are contributing to a widespread unrest. An opposition party has the responsibility and the obligation to expose blunders in government and to publicize the grievances of the people. Once this is done, there will be little trouble about raising money for political campaigns.

Citizen groups with particular causes to advocate are not to be frowned upon. They perform a useful service in stirring up interest in public affairs on concrete issues. Recent criticism of such organizations is somewhat puzzling.

IT SEEMS to depend on what kind of association happens to emerge. Thus, when the "Republicans for Progress" was established to advocate the liberal side of Republicanism, no protests were heard. Yet, when the Free Society Association, started by Goldwater supporters, was announced, it was immediately subjected to severe criticism as being a barrier to the raising of money by the Republican National Committee.

What the Republican party needs to do more than anything else is to expose fully what's happening in government today, particularly in Congress, which is ruled by a rubber-stamp majority. In the congressional elections next year, the people will have a chance to express themselves against much of the loosely worded and inequitable legislation that will have been pressured through Congress by the big Democratic majority.

There is plenty for an opposition party to talk about, and there will be ample opportunity for it to raise funds from the protesting citizens once there is a consensus among the voters that the party out of power might really do a better job than the party now in office.

More Light On Driving

COLUMBUS

Driving used to be so simple. The guy in front steps on the brake and you see a red light. He steps on the gas and you watch him pull away. What could be easier?

But it won't be that way for long if current tests being conducted by Ohio State University researchers are any indication.

FOR THE past year experimental rear-end signal light systems for automobiles have been given rigorous tests by engineers from the university's systems research group in cooperation with the Transportation Engineering Experiment Station.

They are beginning to test experimental light systems at night on Interstate 71. With Dr. Thomas H. Rockwell as chief investigator, the group will evaluate two types of rear-end signaling methods—a tri-light system using red, green and amber lights, and a more complex AID (Acceleration Information Display) system using a battery of 10 red and 10 green lights.

Volunteer drivers will operate a specially instrumented automobile behind a car bearing the experimental light systems.

The lead car is attached to the following car by a "mechanical yo-yo" which automatically reels and unreels a thin wire and measures headway and relative speed between the two vehicles.

DURING THE tests the lead car will go through regular driving maneuvers, ranging from gentle coasting to violent braking at speeds between 35 and 65 miles an hour.

Driver reactions and movements of the following car are recorded automatically.

With the tri-light system, the vehicle displays a green light when the accelerator is depressed, an amber light when the driver is touching neither brake nor accelerator, and a red light when the driver is braking.

The AID system presents even more information. The battery of green lights represents rate of acceleration — showing one green for gentle increase in speed to a full line of lights for high-speed acceleration.

The red lights will give similar information to the following driver-showing one red light for coasting to a full battery of 10 for a violet slam on the brakes.

Independence Day

An Analysis After 189 Years

In the 189 years since the Continental Congress formally cut the last tie with Great Britain, changes that have taken place in this nation have more than fulfilled the fondest dreams of those intrepid Founding Fathers who risked their lives by signing the Declaration of Independence.

While Independence Day is celebrated as the birthday of our great nation and is indeed our greatest secular holiday, the Continental Congress actually approved the resolution of independence on July 2. However, the document to justify this momentous decision was not sanctioned until July 4, 1776.

Of congress's action, John Adams, one of the more perspicacious and prolific penmen of the day, on July 3, 1776, wrote:

"YESTERDAY the greatest question was decided which ever was debated in America; and a greater perhaps never was, nor will be, decided among men. A resolution was passed without one dissenting colony, that those United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent States . . . and of right ought to have, full power to make war, conclude peace, establish commerce, and to do all other acts and things which other States may rightfully do.

"You will see in a few days a Declaration setting forth the causes which have impelled us to this mighty revolution, and the reasons which will justify it in the sight of God and man."

To erase suspicion that he was being carried away by his enthusiasm, hopes and ambitions for the course on which this declaration embarked the colonies, Adams added:

"A plan of confederation will be taken up in a few days. You will think me transported with enthusiasm, but I am not. I am well aware of the toil, and blood, and treasure, that it will cost us to maintain this declaration, and support, and defend these States."

IN ANOTHER passage, his foresight is shown with the words:

"Yet, through all the gloom, I can see the rays of ravishing light and glory. I can say that the end is more than worth all the means, and that prosperity will triumph in that day's transaction, even though we should rue it, which I trust in God we shall not. . . ."

The letter went on to predict that "the second day of July 1776 will be the most memorable epoch in the history of America. I am apt to believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival. It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires, and illuminations from one end of this continent to the other, from this time forward forever more."

The July 2 date however was quickly forgotten and the first anniversary of the declaration was observed July 4th at Philadelphia by the adjournment of congress, a ceremonial dinner, bonfires, the ringing of bells and fireworks.

The custom spread to other cities and states in succeeding years and parades, patriotic oratory, military displays and fireworks were the order of the day. Until recent years it was not uncommon for families, flags in hand, to watch or march in parades, enjoy picnic outings in the parks, listen to statesmen deliver patriotic speeches, watch amateur athletics and pageants and wind up the day at a fireworks display.

While our forefathers warned of some of the dangers as well as the blessings of independence it's doubtful that they saw all the attending evils or threats to our national and individual liberties.

WE DRIVE at breakneck speeds across country and in one long holiday weekend more Americans are slaughtered on our highways than have been killed in battle in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic.

We bemoan the "needless killing" of our boys fighting to preserve the freedom of independent nations but go on our reckless way heedless of the safety of others or ourrselves on the highways.

Our national prosperity is the greatest the world ever has known and far surpasses the fondest dreams of our forefathers yet our Great Society throws into sharper contrast the material and spiritual poverty in which millions of our fellow Americans still live.

Each economic gain has brought more and more social problems and promises still greater problems for the future.

The debasement of our national currency with base metals substituted for gold and silver may be symbolic of our moral decay.

WHEN LEADERS in high political office are more self-seeking than serving; when the refuse to investigate corruption in high places and seek to appease the public with federal handouts for votes, it's time to drop the "hear-no-evil, see-no-evil, speak-no-evil" monkey credo and adopt a code of morality for all political office-seekers.

"There are more instances of the abridgement of the freedom of the people by gradual and silent encroachments of those in power than by violent and sudden usurpation," James Madsion said in a speech in 1788. It is as true today as it was then.

In a two-volume work, "The Later Roman Empire," published last year, A. H. M. Jones, a Cambridge classical scholar concludes that that empire fell not because the barbarians overwhelmed the empire militarily, but because their increasing pressure in the fourth and fifth centuries ultimately required a military establishment, bureaucracy and level of taxation that the economic and social fabric of the empire could not support.

In other words that the Roman empire was better at governing than producing.

HISTORIANS centuries hence will assay the American civilization to determine whether or not we created an opposite and deadlier imbalance.

Perhaps the late Bernard M. Baruch, in his keen insight into the affairs of men and nations, gave us the answer in a speech he delivered in 1944. He said:

"America has never forgotten — and will never forget — the noble things that brought her into being and that light upon her path — the path that was entered upon only 150 years ago. . . . How young she is! It will be centuries before she will adopt that maturity of custom — the clothing of the grave —that some people believe she already it fitted for."

Rusk Reports Move

U.S. Snubbed On Offers To End Viet Bomb Raids

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Sunday night the United States has approached the Communists repeatedly about halting the bombing of North Viet Nam as part of a peace move, and has been cold-shouldered.

"We have asked the other side on more than one occasion what else would stop if we stopped the bombing," Rusk said, without disclosing the channel used for these queries.

"And we have never had any reply. As a matter of fact there have been public statements from Peking that if we stopped bombing North Viet Nam they still would not enter into negotiations for a peaceful settlement," he said.

Rusk said the Communists were given advance notice of last May's five-day trial pause in the U.S. air raids. The Reds gave "very harsh, very harsh" replies before the bombing resumed, he uaid.

Suggestions that America halt the air attacks to promote chances for peace negotiations have been offered by prominent persons abroad and in this country.

Rusk, in a U.S. Information Agency television-radio interview recorded June 24 for broadcast on overseas stations Sunday night, said the Reds have not indicated that a bombing pause would make any difference.

Rusk refused to say just what Red reply would be considered a good enough bargain by Washington to call off the bombing.

As for the argument that the United States should abandon its insistence on holding peace discussions only with governments and should deal directly with the Viet Cong, Rusk said the guerrillas are not "entitled to a special status merely because they have taken up arms."

ANOTHER COUNTRY HEARD FROM. Soldiers from six different nations pose at the entrance to the U.N. headquarters on Cyprus. They represent Canada, Denmark, Finland, Ireland, Sweden and England.

Flowers Wilting In Washington's Beauty Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson and New York philanthropist Mary Lasker rode down Pennsylvania Avenue on a lovely day last spring and where they pointed, azaleas soon appeared.

Mrs. Lasker provided thousands of bushes, they were carefully planted, they bloomed beautifully and there was a dream of Pennsylvania Avenue —the Avenue of the Presidents — abloom with azaleas each spring.

The dream is fading. Now, three months later, some of the plants are dead, some dying, many sick. Hot summer sun and heat reflected from buildings and streets have taken their toll

Apparently, the Washington Post reported, what has happened is that most of the azaleas were planted where they could not survive without costly maintenance. Adequate care, it said, has not been given in some locations.

Riots

erupted with the arrest of three youths on one motorcycle and "it got pretty vicious for a few minutes."

Between 300 and 500 youngsters climbed onto the roof of the town's dancehall and threw rocks, bottles and fireworks at officers and others.

One Rockaway Beach policeman said, "If the parents were only on hand to see how their children are living and behaving down here, this wouldn't happen."

He said the youths brought countless cases of beer into town and crowded into cottages and cabins.

The rioters shattered windows in nine business places and numerous automobiles. They also overturned a police car, ripped a large sign off the dancehall roof and looted a liquor store.

Sunday hundreds of teen-agers in shorts walked aimlessly along the mile-long, debris-strewn street at the edge of Lake Taneycomo. The water was too cold for swimming.

At Arnold Park, Iowa, rioting started among 500 youths who gathered on a lake pier as beer sales stopped at 1 a.m. "We want beer," they shouted. "We want booze."

Police Chief L. E. Smith said officers asked the crowd to break up, but a voice from the crowd yelled: "Hey, punk, we're going to take over this place," and the rampage began. It lasted two hours.

"They pulled down everything they could get their hands on," Smith said. "They burned the clothing off their backs, lumber, barricades, signs, anything."

Said another law officer: "They acted like a bunch of wild men."

Rocks and chunks of concrete smashed windshields of about 100 police and private cars. One missile cut a policeman's ear.

Finally, helped by Iowa highway patrolmen and volunteers, police moved in with tear gas and fire hoses and took control.

Officers confiscated 20 cases of beer from persons too young to possess it legally.

Officials said damage would run into the thousands of dollars.

Oldtimers at this resort on the shore of West Lake Okoboji could not recall anything like it.

Authorities said no special precautions would be taken Sunday night and the special force of six extra police officers would not be augmented. Taverns are closed on Sundays, and retail beer and liquor sales are prohibited.

Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes ordered 400 National Guardsmen into the Russels Point area and alerted another 600 for possible duty there after a night of rioting that started at a fireworks display.

Police said a crowd of 1,500 defiant youths ran wild, firing skyrockets and hurling firecrackers, stopping cars and defacing them.

A few minor injuries were reported but property damage was estimated in the thousands of dollars.

The rioters set one cottage afire and drove firemen back with rocks when they arrived to fight the flames.

Singer Rapped For Cancellation

LONDON (AP)—Another London newspaper has criticized American-born soprano Maria Callas for canceling three of her four scheduled appearances in Tosca at London's Royal Opera House.

Miss Callas will appear only in Monday's Royal Gala performance before Queen Elizabeth's II. The opera house said the singer made the cancelations on medical advice.

"What an odd indisposition hers is," said the Sunday Express in an editorial.

"Tomorrow she is graciously appearing at Convent Garden to sing beore the Queen. Yet it seems she will not be well enough to take part in further performances of Tosca on July 8 and 12.

"Isn't that a little too much to take even from a fashionable prima donna?

Poland Eyes Western Europe Design Plans

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Poland is turning to Western Europe for designs of home appliances and other machinery which it formerly tried to design itself or to make from patterns available in the Communist Block.

The Polish press agency reported details Sunday of negotiations for licensing agreements or other forms of economic cooperation with Western Europe. It said foreign licenses in many cases could improve the quality and bring Polish products closer to the world standard.

It reported deals had been made for home washing machines, vacuum cleaners, automatic transistor producing lines, production of gramophones with automatic record changers and juke boxes.

Rusk Reports Move

U.S. Snubbed On Offers To End Viet Bomb Raids

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Sunday night the United States has approached the Communists repeatedly about halting the bombing of North Viet Nam as part of a peace move, and has been cold-shouldered.

"We have asked the other side on more than one occasion what else would stop if we stopped the bombing," Rusk said, without disclosing the channel used for these queries.

"And we have never had any reply. As a matter of fact there have been public statements from Peking that if we stopped bombing North Viet Nam they still would not enter into negotiations for a peaceful settlement," he said.

Rusk said the Communists were given advance notice of last May's five-day trial pause in the U.S. air raids. The Reds gave "very harsh, very harsh" replies before the bombing resumed, he uaid.

Suggestions that America halt the air attacks to promote chances for peace negotiations have been offered by prominent persons abroad and in this country.

Rusk, in a U.S. Information Agency television-radio interview recorded June 24 for broadcast on overseas stations Sunday night, said the Reds have not indicated that a bombing pause would make any difference.

Rusk refused to say just what Red reply would be considered a good enough bargain by Washington to call off the bombing.

As for the argument that the United States should abandon its insistence on holding peace discussions only with governments and should deal directly with the Viet Cong, Rusk said the guerrillas are not "entitled to a special status merely because they have taken up arms."

Riots

erupted with the arrest of three youths on one motorcycle and "it got pretty vicious for a few minutes."

Between 300 and 500 youngsters climbed onto the roof of the town's dancehall and threw rocks, bottles and fireworks at officers and others.

One Rockaway Beach policeman said, "If the parents were only on hand to see how their children are living and behaving down here, this wouldn't happen."

He said the youths brought countless cases of beer into town and crowded into cottages and cabins.

The rioters shattered windows in nine business places and numerous automobiles. They also overturned a police car, ripped a large sign off the dancehall roof and looted a liquor store.

Sunday hundreds of teen-agers in shorts walked aimlessly along the mile-long, debris-strewn street at the edge of Lake Taneycomo. The water was too cold for swimming.

At Arnold Park, Iowa, rioting started among 500 youths who gathered on a lake pier as beer sales stopped at 1 a.m. "We want beer," they shouted. "We want booze."

Police Chief L. E. Smith said officers asked the crowd to break up, but a voice from the crowd yelled: "Hey, punk, we're going to take over this place," and the rampage began. It lasted two hours.

"They pulled down everything they could get their hands on," Smith said. "They burned the clothing off their backs, lumber, barricades, signs, anything."

Said another law officer: "They acted like a bunch of wild men."

Rocks and chunks of concrete smashed windshields of about 100 police and private cars. One missile cut a policeman's ear.

Finally, helped by Iowa highway patrolmen and volunteers, police moved in with tear gas and fire hoses and took control.

Officers confiscated 20 cases of beer from persons too young to possess it legally.

Officials said damage would run into the thousands of dollars.

Oldtimers at this resort on the shore of West Lake Okoboji could not recall anything like it.

Authorities said no special precautions would be taken Sunday night and the special force of six extra police officers would not be augmented. Taverns are closed on Sundays, and retail beer and liquor sales are prohibited.

Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes ordered 400 National Guardsmen into the Russels Point area and alerted another 600 for possible duty there after a night of rioting that started at a fireworks display.

Police said a crowd of 1,500 defiant youths ran wild, firing skyrockets and hurling firecrackers, stopping cars and defacing them.

A few minor injuries were reported but property damage was estimated in the thousands of dollars.

The rioters set one cottage afire and drove firemen back with rocks when they arrived to fight the flames.

Singer Rapped For Cancellation

LONDON (AP)—Another London newspaper has criticized American-born soprano Maria Callas for canceling three of her four scheduled appearances in Tosca at London's Royal Opera House.

Miss Callas will appear only in Monday's Royal Gala performance before Queen Elizabeth's II. The opera house said the singer made the cancelations on medical advice.

"What an odd indisposition hers is," said the Sunday Express in an editorial.

"Tomorrow she is graciously appearing at Convent Garden to sing beore the Queen. Yet it seems she will not be well enough to take part in further performances of Tosca on July 8 and 12.

"Isn't that a little too much to take even from a fashionable prima donna?

Poland Eyes Western Europe Design Plans

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Poland is turning to Western Europe for designs of home appliances and other machinery which it formerly tried to design itself or to make from patterns available in the Communist Block.

The Polish press agency reported details Sunday of negotiations for licensing agreements or other forms of economic cooperation with Western Europe. It said foreign licenses in many cases could improve the quality and bring Polish products closer to the world standard.

It reported deals had been made for home washing machines, vacuum cleaners, automatic transistor producing lines, production of gramophones with automatic record changers and juke boxes.

Flowers Wilting In Washington's Beauty Program

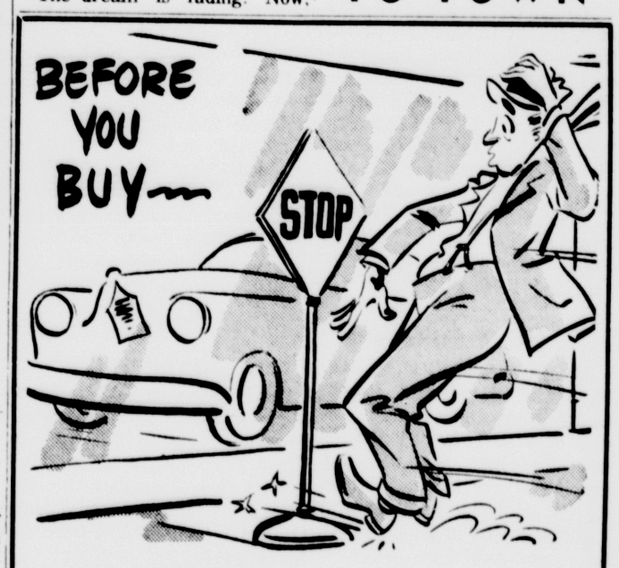

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson and New York philanthropist Mary Lasker rode down Pennsylvania Avenue on a lovely day last spring and where they pointed, azaleas soon appeared.

Mrs. Lasker provided thousands of bushes, they were carefully planted, they bloomed beautifully and there was a dream of Pennsylvania Avenue —the Avenue of the Presidents — abloom with azaleas each spring.

The dream is fading. Now, three months later, some of the plants are dead, some dying, many sick. Hot summer sun and heat reflected from buildings and streets have taken their toll

Apparently, the Washington Post reported, what has happened is that most of the azaleas were planted where they could not survive without costly maintenance. Adequate care, it said, has not been given in some locations.

Thief Obtains Money From Patron In Bar

An East Liverpool woman told police a thief removed $115 in currency from a pocket of her dress Saturday night while she was in a downtown tavern.

Mrs. Grace Salsberry, 748 Daisy Ln., told Patrolman Karl W. Samples the money was taken while she talked with some other patrons in the Oasis Tavern on Market St.

Mrs. Salsberry said she had just cashed a check and placed the currency in a pocket of her dress. After conversing with some people, she said, she telephoned for a taxi cab and it was then that she discovered the cash had been stolen.

Two more thefts and two cases of vandalism also were reported to police.

A 12-volt battery was stolen from a 1962 model auto on the M. & A. Motors used car lot at 1606 Pennsylvania Ave. between 6 p. m. Friday and 9 a. m. Saturday, officers were told Saturday afternoon. James Anthony, a lot boy, discovered the loss, which was estimated at $14.

William Campbell, 1054 Avondale St., told police Saturday night at 8:35 a thief entered his home and took an unspecified quantity of food from the kitchen cupboard. Officers said there was no sign of forcible entry.

Mrs. Martha Coleman, 919½ Fairview St., reported to police early Saturday afternoon a vandal hurled a stone which broke a 22-x-30-inch window at her home some time between 9:30 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m. Saturday.

In a similar incident, Mrs. Essie Arkward, 823 State St., reported at 8:30 a.m. Sunday that a vandal broke a large window in the livingroom at her home about midnight Saturday.

Mrs. Arkward reported she was seated in her living room about midnight Saturday when she heard a noise, but investigated and found nothing. She said she found Sunday morning that the upper section of the living room window had been broken by a stone.

Two Motorcycles Ram In Series Of Mishaps

An East Palestine motorcyclist was injured, two East Liverpool residents complained of injuries and three drivers were cited in four accidents investigated Saturday by the State Highway Patrol.

The patrol said it still is investigating a collision between two motorcycles that sent Willard Long, 26, of 244 E. Clark St., East Palestine, to Salem City Hospital.

LONG WAS in "fair" condition Sunday with multiple lacerations and abrasions of the right temple and right forearm.

Long was driving a 1965 motorcycle and Ronald L. Kotsch, 23, of 274 W. Main St., East Palestine, was riding a 1952 "bike" when the crash occurred at 8:20 p.m. on Route 170, about a mile and a half south of East Palestine.

A motorcycle laso was involved in a collision Saturday at 5:35 p.m. on Park Way Ext., about three miles north of East Liverpool, the patrol reported.

Nick Marchbanks, 1570 Holliday St., a passenger on the 1965 motorcycle operated by Stephen Joseph Yanni, 17, of 1603 Holliday St., complained of an injury, the patrol said.

According to the patrol, Yanni was following a southbound convertible operated by Willard E. Stoll, 49, of Lisbon R.D. 2. When Stoll started to make a left turn into a driveway, Yanni was unable to stop and started around on the left, but hit the left rear of the auto.

Yanni was cited for failing to stop within the assured clear distance, the patrol said.

Max Eugene Linville, 31, of Valley Dr., was cited on the same charge after a crash at 5:25 p.m. in Calcutta, the patrol said.

—:—

THE COLLISION involved Linville's 1958 auto, which received moderate damage, and a 1959 auto operated by Ellen MacPherson, 36, of 1198 Pennsylvania Ave., which was damaged in the rear end.

The woman motorist complained of an injury, the patrol said.

The patrol said the woman was headed north on Route 170, but stopped because of another auto pulling onto the road and was struck in the rear by Linville.

Kathleen Ream Cosley, 39, of Wellsville R.D. 1 was cited for driving left of center after an accident at 10:10 p.m. Saturday on Route 39, just west of Wellsville.

The patrol said the woman made a right turn on Route 39 from Township Rd. 1009 and then veered left of center and struck the westbound 1964 auto of Leroy E. Mann, 61, of 1711 Lincoln Ave., Wellsville.

An apparent accident Sunday on Route 267, approximately a mile south of Route 30, was being investigated by the patrol.

The Lisbon barracks said a 1953 auto, which apparently ran into a dirt embankment, received slight damage to the right front and right side. However, the driver was not at the auto when the patrol arrived.

Boom Period

Canada's Hudson Bay port at Churchill, Manitoba, booms for 10 weeks of the year, then hibernates through a long winter.

Late in June, ice in the bay and the Churchill River begins to break. It cracks into myriad floes that float out to sea or pile up on shore. The town becomes watery with slush.

Churchill's business and population soar during the brief two and a half months of warm weather. Workers swarm into town to unload freighters from around the world and fill them with grain from Canada's Prairie provinces — Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

The ships disgorge goods ranging from toys to tractors. Most come from England and continental Europe. In turn, more than 20,000,000 bushels of wheat are poured into waiting holds.

Ships brave the forbidding waters, perilous with icebergs, for a sound economic reason. This route to Europe is 1,000 miles shorter than the route down the St. Lawrence River

Churchill cannot be reached by car or truck, for no road extends into this desolate region. Twice weekly, however, the Muskeg Express leaves Winnipeg and chugs across the bleak tundra to Churchill. When weather permits, a plane lands regularly.

Two Motorcycles Ram In Series Of Mishaps

An East Palestine motorcyclist was injured, two East Liverpool residents complained of injuries and three drivers were cited in four accidents investigated Saturday by the State Highway Patrol.

The patrol said it still is investigating a collision between two motorcycles that sent Willard Long, 26, of 244 E. Clark St., East Palestine, to Salem City Hospital.

LONG WAS in "fair" condition Sunday with multiple lacerations and abrasions of the right temple and right forearm.

Long was driving a 1965 motorcycle and Ronald L. Kotsch, 23, of 274 W. Main St., East Palestine, was riding a 1952 "bike" when the crash occurred at 8:20 p.m. on Route 170, about a mile and a half south of East Palestine.

A motorcycle laso was involved in a collision Saturday at 5:35 p.m. on Park Way Ext., about three miles north of East Liverpool, the patrol reported.

Nick Marchbanks, 1570 Holliday St., a passenger on the 1965 motorcycle operated by Stephen Joseph Yanni, 17, of 1603 Holliday St., complained of an injury, the patrol said.

According to the patrol, Yanni was following a southbound convertible operated by Willard E. Stoll, 49, of Lisbon R.D. 2. When Stoll started to make a left turn into a driveway, Yanni was unable to stop and started around on the left, but hit the left rear of the auto.

Yanni was cited for failing to stop within the assured clear distance, the patrol said.

Max Eugene Linville, 31, of Valley Dr., was cited on the same charge after a crash at 5:25 p.m. in Calcutta, the patrol said.

—:—

THE COLLISION involved Linville's 1958 auto, which received moderate damage, and a 1959 auto operated by Ellen MacPherson, 36, of 1198 Pennsylvania Ave., which was damaged in the rear end.

The woman motorist complained of an injury, the patrol said.

The patrol said the woman was headed north on Route 170, but stopped because of another auto pulling onto the road and was struck in the rear by Linville.

Kathleen Ream Cosley, 39, of Wellsville R.D. 1 was cited for driving left of center after an accident at 10:10 p.m. Saturday on Route 39, just west of Wellsville.

The patrol said the woman made a right turn on Route 39 from Township Rd. 1009 and then veered left of center and struck the westbound 1964 auto of Leroy E. Mann, 61, of 1711 Lincoln Ave., Wellsville.

An apparent accident Sunday on Route 267, approximately a mile south of Route 30, was being investigated by the patrol.

The Lisbon barracks said a 1953 auto, which apparently ran into a dirt embankment, received slight damage to the right front and right side. However, the driver was not at the auto when the patrol arrived.

Thief Obtains Money From Patron In Bar

An East Liverpool woman told police a thief removed $115 in currency from a pocket of her dress Saturday night while she was in a downtown tavern.

Mrs. Grace Salsberry, 748 Daisy Ln., told Patrolman Karl W. Samples the money was taken while she talked with some other patrons in the Oasis Tavern on Market St.

Mrs. Salsberry said she had just cashed a check and placed the currency in a pocket of her dress. After conversing with some people, she said, she teiephoned for a taxi cab and it was then that she discovered the cash had been stolen.

Two more thefts and two cases of vandalism also were reported to police.

A 12-volt battery was stolen from a 1962 model auto on the M. & A. Motors used car lot at 1606 Pennsylvania Ave. between 6 p. m. Friday and 9 a. m. Saturday, officers were told Saturday afternoon. James Anthony, a lot boy, discovered the loss, which was estimated at $14.

William Campbell, 1054 Avondale St., told police Saturday night at 8:35 a thief entered his home and took an unspecified quantity of food from the kitchen cupboard. Officers said there was no sign of forcible entry.

Mrs. Martha Coleman, 919½ Fairview St., reported to police early Saturday afternoon a vandal hurled a stone which broke a 22-x-30-inch window at her home some time between 9:30 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m. Saturday.

In a similar incident, Mrs. Essie Arkward, 823 State St., reported at 8:30 a.m. Sunday that a vandal broke a large window in the livingroom at her home about midnight Saturday.

Mrs. Arkward reported she was seated in her living room about midnight Saturday when she heard a noise, but investigated and found nothing. She said she found Sunday morning that the upper section of the living room window had been broken by a stone.

Boom Period

Canada's Hudson Bay port at Churchill, Manitoba, booms for 10 weeks of the year, then hibernates through a long winter.

Late in June, ice in the bay and the Churchill River begins to break. It cracks into myriad floes that float out to sea or pile up on shore. The town becomes watery with slush.

Churchill's business and population soar during the brief two and a half months of warm weather. Workers swarm into town to unload freighters from around the world and fill them with grain from Canada's Prairie provinces — Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

The ships disgorge goods ranging from toys to tractors. Most come from England and continental Europe. In turn, more than 20,000,000 bushels of wheat are poured into waiting holds.

Ships brave the forbidding waters, perilous with icebergs, for a sound economic reason. This route to Europe is 1,000 miles shorter than the route down the St. Lawrence River

Churchill cannot be reached by car or truck, for no road extends into this desolate region. Twice weekly, however, the Muskeg Express leaves Winnipeg and chugs across the bleak tundra to Churchill. When weather permits, a plane lands regularly.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Here Comes Peter Jennings

Handsome 27-year-old Peter Jennings says he has no desire to be ABC's answer to Walter Cronkite, although he's following Cronkite to Viet Nam this week. Obviously, though, the network hopes it can put a dent in the competition with its young Canadian.

Hal Humphrey

"I am not competing on a personality basis," insists Jennings. "First of all, I'm only on 15 minutes to his half hour. All I want to do is provide an alternate factor."

-:-

JENNINGS does say he would enjoy knocking Cronkite and Huntley-Brinkley from their high-rated perch, not for the sake of knocking them off, but by delivering a better and harder news program.

Jennings' quiet cockiness, or perhaps confidence is a more apt word for it, seems to stem from his present ambition to be first a newsman, not a showman.

"I turned down this job of being ABC's weekday national anchorman on the news when it was first offered, because I didn't think I was familiar enough with your country," Jennings says.

ABC had hired him from the commercial Canadian Television Network in September 1964, offering him the anchor job soon afterward. Jennings finally took it last February. By then he had covered the civil rights story in Mississippi, traveled with the campaigning Barry Goldwater and attended President Johnson's inauguration.

SINCE TAKING OVER the ABC anchor spot, Jennings spends most of his weekends traveling around the United States to acquaint himself further with its typography and people.

He is most amazed at the fear and trepidation which permeates our TV and radio newscasting and asks how this can be so in a country looked up to by at least half the world as its leader.

"Believe me, nothing in Canada is taboo on TV and radio," Jennings reports. "We did venereal disease documentaries on TV there 10 years ago, while here I find it treated on the air very rarely, if at all. I'm astounded to find myself in a studio here with not only the producer but also a company lawyer."

-:-

JENNINGS SAYS he is a fan of Cronkite and Brinkley, but frequently he disagrees with the critics' appraisal of their work — especially Huntley-Brinkley, who he feels are praised too highly for simply routine coverage of many events.

"My dad, who now is a vice president of the Canadian Broadcasting Corp., always beat it into my head that the news should take precedence on newscasts," says Jennings, "and if show business gets in the way of my doing the news I'll either put a stop to it or my friends will let me know about it soon enough and do it for me."

He goes on to say that he will leave ABC, or any other news job, if he finds himself unable to resolve his feelings about the news with those of his employers.

-:-

JENNINGS' fondest hope was realized when ABC okayed his leaving for Viet Nam this week. He will go to Cairo, Moscow and New Delhi on the way to Saigon and hopes his Canadian passport will get him to Hanoi—and one-up on Cronkite, whom he had wanted to beat to Viet Nam.

"The guys fighting in Viet Nam are my contemporaries, so I feel this is my war," says Jennings, who still has some doubts that his decision to become an anchor man was a right one.

"I would sooner be a correspondent. The first hour and a half I was in Santo Domingo somebody shot at me, and that one shot suddenly replaced the 30,000 or so words of wire copy I'd read to acquaint me with the situation," Jennings says.

-:-

BROADCASTINGS since he was age 9, Jennings' reportorial experience has all been through the air. But he believes one can became an experienced reporter on radio as fast as he can learn the craft with a newspaper.

"Besides," he adds, "broadcasting is a unique medium. An experienced newspaper reporter can't just transpose his kind of journalism to radio or TV."

The Messrs. Huntley, Brinkley and Cronkite may not have to worry about Peter Jennings yet, but 10 years from now he will be in his prime at 37 and referring to his network opposites as "those grand old men of news broadcasting."

Bringing Up A Family

By Dr. GARRY MYERS

Child Aided By Parents' Common Sense

Parents don't need to have a lot of formal education in order to appreciate the way a little child develops his mental facilities. All parents need is good common sense and appreciation of their child as a developing person. For example here is a letter from a mother in Michigan:

Dr. Garry Myers

"I read your article in the newspaper about children thinking and couldn't miss the opportunity to brag about out little boy, Mack.

Neither my husband nor I had any college education so we didn't know any methods of teaching him anything. Consequently, all his thinking and reasoning was started by himself.

"Mack was saying words well by seven months and now he is two years old and talks well in sentences. His vocabulary is extensive so he is able to express himself quite understandably. He knew most of the animals and their sounds by the time he was a year old.

"NOW HE can tell me about any animals I ask and if they don't have a sound he can still recognize their picture. He knows all the animals by picture or the real thing. He also knew every part of his body by the age of one year.

"My husband is Spanish and has taught our son some of the Spanish language.

"As for reasoning, I guess this would be an example:

"Every morning we told him it was time for his daddy to go to work. Later, a friend came by to take daddy to work. So all day Mack would tell me 'Daddy works with Chuck.'

"Now my husband has a different job, and one afternoon he was telling me of a man at work named Pancho. Apparently Mack was listening because now he says 'Daddy works with Pancho, not Chuck.'

"After we've gone to any particular place a couple of times, the next time we go there Mack recognizes things and can tell where we're going.

"I COULD sit here all day listing anecdotes to show reasoning ability, but enough is enough. We have another baby due any time and I'm looking forward to it as much as I did Mack. Maybe that's why Mack thinks so much and we don't have any discipline or any other major problems with him. We just wanted him so much and love him so much.

"Thank you, Dr. Myers, for listening. I guess every mother likes to brag and you just offer us a chance."

My reply in part:

You parents seem quite wonderful in your insight into that little child. It's refreshing to read of the way you young parents appreciate and enjoy the mental development of your little son and treat him as the precious person he is.

I hope you parents will read to this little fellow every day. It is wonderful you can look forward to the new baby. Some problems may arise, as Mack's place will be threatened by the new baby. But because Dad is so appreciative of Mack, he can keep on helping this boy feel worthwhile.

IT IS FINE that Dad even teaches Mack a few words of Spanish, adding to their companionship. I would advise Dad, however, to go slowly now at teaching Mack this new language until after he develops further in English speech. Mack may sometimes be confused at speech. Yet by the time he is five or six he may have mastered two languages. How wonderful that would be!

My bulletins, "The Young Child's Speech," "Letting Baby and Tot Learn," and "Enjoying Our Children," may be secured by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Beatles Get Mild Greeting At Tour End

LONDON (AP) — The Beatles returned Sunday from a European tour on which they played to less-than-capacity houses and received a subdued welcome home from only about 1,000 young screamers, mostly girls.

The mop-topped millionaires were a little subdued themselves after having their bankrolls dented by a Spanish airline for $560 in excess baggage charges.

Other passengers on the plane had to wait 40 minutes at the Barcelona airport while the Beatles checked through 66 pieces of luggage and haggled with Spanish authorities over extra charges.

So when they landed here, some girls had been waiting 14 hours. Before noon the crowd filled the airport's roof gallery, armed with banners and confetti.

Some skirmishes between fans and police occurred when a few girls lunged at the Beatles' car driving onto the airport.

Officials refused to let the Beatles' plane come close under the gallery where the fans massed because, one official said, "As soon as they see the aircraft they go mad and there's always the chance of some silly girl toppling off the roof."

Ringo Starr and John Lennon sported toreador hats and Lennon drew squeals when he performed a Spanish dance. But the quartet refused to comment on their lukewarm receptions in Italy and Spain, where high admission prices were sometimes blamed for empty seats.

British Airways Hires Girls With Spectacles

LONDON (AP) — British European Airways has announced that its new recruiting campaign for air hostesses will accept girls who wear glasses.

"We have lost a lot of good girls in the past because of the rule that hostesses must not need glasses," an announcement said. "Now our medical service has agreed that spectacles or minor degrees of color blindness need not prevent a girl from taking up a flying career."

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Here Comes Peter Jennings

Handsome 27-year-old Peter Jennings says he has no desire to be ABC's answer to Walter Cronkite, although he's following Cronkite to Viet Nam this week. Obviously, though, the network hopes it can put a dent in the competition with its young Canadian.

Hal Humphrey

"I am not competing on a personality basis," insists Jennings. "First of all, I'm only on 15 minutes to his half hour. All I want to do is provide an alternate factor."

-:-

JENNINGS does say he would enjoy knocking Cronkite and Huntley-Brinkley from their high-rated perch, not for the sake of knocking them off, but by delivering a better and harder news program.

Jennings' quiet cockiness, or perhaps confidence is a more apt word for it, seems to stem from his present ambition to be first a newsman, not a showman.

"I turned down this job of being ABC's weekday national anchorman on the news when it was first offered, because I didn't think I was familiar enough with your country," Jennings says.

ABC had hired him from the commercial Canadian Television Network in September 1964, offering him the anchor job soon afterward. Jennings finally took it last February. By then he had covered the civil rights story in Mississippi, traveled with the campaigning Barry Goldwater and attended President Johnson's inauguration.

SINCE TAKING OVER the ABC anchor spot, Jennings spends most of his weekends traveling around the United States to acquaint himself further with its typography and people.

He is most amazed at the fear and trepidation which permeates our TV and radio newscasting and asks how this can be so in a country looked up to by at least half the world as its leader.

"Believe me, nothing in Canada is taboo on TV and radio," Jennings reports. "We did venereal disease documentaries on TV there 10 years ago, while here I find it treated on the air very rarely, if at all. I'm astounded to find myself in a studio here with not only the producer but also a company lawyer."

-:-

JENNINGS SAYS he is a fan of Cronkite and Brinkley, but frequently he disagrees with the critics' appraisal of their work — especially Huntley-Brinkley, who he feels are praised too highly for simply routine coverage of many events.

"My dad, who now is a vice president of the Canadian Broadcasting Corp., always beat it into my head that the news should take precedence on newscasts," says Jennings, "and if show business gets in the way of my doing the news I'll either put a stop to it or my friends will let me know about it soon enough and do it for me."

He goes on to say that he will leave ABC, or any other news job, if he finds himself unable to resolve his feelings about the news with those of his employers.

-:-

JENNINGS' fondest hope was realized when ABC okayed his leaving for Viet Nam this week. He will go to Cairo, Moscow and New Delhi on the way to Saigon and hopes his Canadian passport will get him to Hanoi—and one-up on Cronkite, whom he had wanted to beat to Viet Nam.

"The guys fighting in Viet Nam are my contemporaries, so I feel this is my war," says Jennings, who still has some doubts that his decision to become an anchor man was a right one.

"I would sooner be a correspondent. The first hour and a half I was in Santo Domingo somebody shot at me, and that one shot suddenly replaced the 30,000 or so words of wire copy I'd read to acquaint me with the situation," Jennings says.

-:-

BROADCASTINGS since he was age 9, Jennings' reportorial experience has all been through the air. But he believes one can became an experienced reporter on radio as fast as he can learn the craft with a newspaper.

"Besides," he adds, "broadcasting is a unique medium. An experienced newspaper reporter can't just transpose his kind of journalism to radio or TV."

The Messrs. Huntley, Brinkley and Cronkite may not have to worry about Peter Jennings yet, but 10 years from now he will be in his prime at 37 and referring to his network opposites as "those grand old men of news broadcasting."

5 Dippers Depart

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Those five boys running around wearing very little, if anything, can get their clothes back from the sheriff. When a deputy found the youths taking a 2 a.m. dip at a private swim club, they didn't stay around long enough to pick up their clothes left by the pool.

Bringing Up A Family

By Dr. GARRY MYERS

Child Aided By Parents' Common Sense

Parents don't need to have a lot of formal education in order to appreciate the way a little child develops his mental facilities. All parents need is good common sense and appreciation of their child as a developing person. For example here is a letter from a mother in Michigan: "I read your article in the newspaper about children thinking and couldn't miss the opportunity to brag about out little boy, Mack.

Dr. Garry Myers

Neither my husband nor I had any college education so we didn't know any methods of teaching him anything. Consequently, all his thinking and reasoning was started by himself.

"Mack was saying words well by seven months and now he is two years old and talks well in sentences. His vocabulary is extensive so he is able to express himself quite understandably. He knew most of the animals and their sounds by the time he was a year old.

"NOW HE can tell me about any animals I ask and if they don't have a sound he can still recognize their picture. He knows all the animals by picture or the real thing. He also knew every part of his body by the age of one year.

"My husband is Spanish and has taught our son some of the Spanish language.

"As for reasoning, I guess this would be an example:

"Every morning we told him it was time for his daddy to go to work. Later, a friend came by to take daddy to work. So all day Mack would tell me 'Daddy works with Chuck.'

"Now my husband has a different job, and one afternoon he was telling me of a man at work named Pancho. Apparently Mack was listening because now he says 'Daddy works with Pancho, not Chuck.'

"After we've gone to any particular place a couple of times, the next time we go there Mack recognizes things and can tell where we're going.

"I COULD sit here all day listing anecdotes to show reasoning ability, but enough is enough. We have another baby due any time and I'm looking forward to it as much as I did Mack. Maybe that's why Mack thinks so much and we don't have any discipline or any other major problems with him. We just wanted him so much and love him so much.

"Thank you, Dr. Myers, for listening. I guess every mother likes to brag and you just offer us a chance."

My reply in part:

You parents seem quite wonderful in your insight into that little child. It's refreshing to read of the way you young parents appreciate and enjoy the mental development of your little son and treat him as the precious person he is.

I hope you parents will read to this little fellow every day. It is wonderful you can look forward to the new baby. Some problems may arise, as Mack's place will be threatened by the new baby. But because Dad is so appreciative of Mack, he can keep on helping this boy feel worthwhile.

IT IS FINE that Dad even teaches Mack a few words of Spanish, adding to their companionship. I would advise Dad, however, to go slowly now at teaching Mack this new language until after he develops further in English speech. Mack may sometimes be confused at speech. Yet by the time he is five or six he may have mastered two languages. How wonderful that would be!

My bulletins, "The Young Child's Speech," "Letting Baby and Tot Learn," and "Enjoying Our Children," may be secured by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Appointed by Gov. James A. Rhodes were Leonard J. Stern of suburban Bexley to the Franklin County bench and John L. Angelotta of suburban South Euclid to the Cuyahoga County post.

France Snubs U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — France is one of the major nations not issuing commemorative stamps in 1965 for the United Nation's 20th anniversary. Among the 49 nations which plan special stamp issues are the United States, Soviet Union, Britain and Nationalist China.

Beatles Get Mild Greeting At Tour End

LONDON (AP) — The Beatles returned Sunday from a European tour on which they played to less-than-capacity houses and received a subdued welcome home from only about 1,000 young screamers, mostly girls.

The mop-topped millionaires were a little subdued themselves after having their bankrolls dented by a Spanish airline for $560 in excess baggage charges.

Other passengers on the plane had to wait 40 minutes at the Barcelona airport while the Beatles checked through 66 pieces of luggage and haggled with Spanish authorities over extra charges.

So when they landed here, some girls had been waiting 14 hours. Before noon the crowd filled the airport's roof gallery, armed with banners and confetti.

Some skirmishes between fans and police occurred when a few girls lunged at the Beatles' car driving onto the airport.

Officials refused to let the Beatles' plane come close under the gallery where the fans massed because, one official said, "As soon as they see the aircraft they go mad and there's always the chance of some silly girl toppling off the roof."

Ringo Starr and John Lennon sported toreador hats and Lennon drew squeals when he performed a Spanish dance. But the quartet refused to comment on their lukewarm receptions in Italy and Spain, where high admission prices were sometimes blamed for empty seats.

British Airways Hires Girls With Spectacles

LONDON (AP) — British European Airways has announced that its new recruiting campaign for air hostesses will accept girls who wear glasses.

"We have lost a lot of good girls in the past because of the rule that hostesses must not need glasses," an announcement said. "Now our medical service has agreed that spectacles or minor degrees of color blindness need not prevent a girl from taking up a flying career."

Apparitions Explained

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — Sonam Wangyal, a member of India's successful Mt. Everest team, thinks he has solved the mystery of apparitions reportedly sighted in altitudes of 27,000 feet or more. He said he saw huge birds, possibly kites, flying at 29,000 feet as he struggled to the summit.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: I like to use spray starch on some of my ironing, but never seem to get to the bottom of the can. There's always at least one-fourth can left that won't come out.

Have any of your readers solved this problem? I hate to throw away the can when I know it isn't empty.

GRAM'A.

DEAR GRAM'A: We have written to, and talked with manufacturers of several spray products, and here is what they say is most likely to be the reason the cans fail to expel all the contents:

The most usual cause is failure to shake the can thoroughly before each use. This must be done to aerate the contents so it will come out in a very fine spray—the lighter airy fluid uses up less of the gas in the can.

If the can is not shaken well, it takes more of the gas to expel the contents, and the gas is used up before the contents of the can is utilized.

So, gals, when you think you have shaken those spray cans enough . . . give 'em a few more shakes!

ANOTHER FAULT is not pushing the valve down ALL the way—we want to give something just a tiny "squirt", so we just push the valve part way. This is not good, as we are just wasting the compressed air and not getting at the fluid.

Also, if the container is partly emptied, and you tip it on its side, the dip tube in the can may not reach the starch, and you will run out of pressure (gas-fizz) before the contents of the can are used.

There is always the possibility of a faulty valve, since they are quite delicate. If one part (they are made up of several parts) of the valve should have been jarred just a tiny bit by a hard bump or fall (either in the home, store, or in shipping), it may not work properly.

Once in a while you may purchase a faulty can. If this happens, take it back to the store where you bought it. Usually, they will replace it. If not, then I suggest you write the manufacturer.

Love those handy spray products — starches, fresheners, etc., don't you?

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: In the summertime when the fireplace isn't in use, I cover the screen with artificial fern and a few scattered floowers.

This is attractive, and covers the unattractive inside of the fireplace.

MARGUERITE M. LEIS.

—:—

DEAR HELOISE: Maybe I'm not too bright, but I never could manipulate those fancy cake decorating gadgets! So . . .

I bought several plastic mustard and catsup dispensers in the dime store, and when I want to decorate a cake, I put the colors I wish to use in the various containers and squeeze out the designs, names, etc. Simple eh?

DEAR HELLO-EASE: I read a hint recently about putting crepe paper around your hair to keep it in place at night. I have a way that holds nicely, and is free — no paper to buy.

Simply take a clean, old nylon stocking and cut it all the way down the center back, including the foot part.

At night, wrap this around your hair, and just crisscross the nylon on the top front of your hair (no need to tie or pin it in place), then put a hair net over it.

I keep my hair style in place all week with this method

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I have read your suggestions for using carpet samples, and have one to add:

Recently I saw a rug in a summer cottage made from these samples.

They were joined together with iron-on tape.

It was so colorful, and gave quite a casual atmosphere.

Calm Marks Jazz Festival

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — The Newport Jazz Festival has been a pleasant surprise to police in the area.

Although large crowds of jazz enthusiasts milled the streets Sunday, waiting for the final evening concert, there was no rioting or similar violent incident that, in the past, has added cacophony to the jazz sounds of top names in music.

Frank Sinatra will headline the last performance of the four-day festival and 13,000 listeners were expected.

About 70 persons have been arrested since the event's opening Thursday night — all for minor offenses.

The festival was the scene of rioting in 1960. Police said they have been better able to control the crowd this year for two reasons: The new festival field is situated about 2½ miles from the downtown section and nighttime sleeping on the beaches has been prohibited.

The visitors, most of them college-aged youths without much money, have adapted to the beach slumber ban in varied ways.

Many slept during the day on the beaches. Others resigned themselves to a low-cost hotel room or found a place in special accommodations at the National Guard armory and the American Legion headquarters.

A number just walked the streets or sat in restaurants.

A girl wearing a Vassar sweater said, "My guy and I walked the streets all Friday night. We have only $15 between us and we don't want to waste any of it on rooms."

A few were accommodated at the city jail after their arrest on charges of having no place to sleep.

The United States Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn., was founded in 1876.

Parliamentary Rebuff Eyed For Prince Over Utterances

LONDON (AP) — Prince Philip found himself in the middle of a controversy Sunday.

The queen's husband, often an outspoken man, stirred up a hornet's nest Friday night in a speech in which he urged patience in settling the future of Rhodesia rather than "risk a blood bath."

The Rhodesian question is a ticklish one now and Prince Philip's plea for patience ran counter to pleas of African prime ministers who have been urging British Prime Minister Harold Wilson to take immediate action.

Wilson and Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia have been negotiating the constitutional future of that British African dependency, where 225,000 whites rule 3½ million Africans.

Laborite legislator Hugh Jenkins said Saturday he intends to raise the matter in Parliament by a motion which would, in effect, be a challenge to Prince Philip. The motion will state "this house believes that it is a condition of constitutional monarchy that royalty shall not give public expression to contentious political opinions."

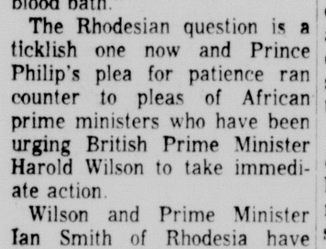

Although the prince, as the queen's consort, inevitably is associated with the queen in her constitutional role of head of state, his position is actually that of a private citizen.

His speeches are not an expression of public policy. A Buckingham Palace spokesman made it clear that Philip was speaking spontaneously when he mentioned the Rhodesian issue. The government was not aware of his remarks beforehand.

Other criticism of Philip came from Lord Brockway, leftist Laborite member of Parliament who is chairman of the movement for colonial freedom.

How To Avoid Closet 'Dead Spots'

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

House hunters on the prowl note that a great many new homes still do not build closets to suit modern needs.

But in most homes a closet would need to be tailored to suit the family, anyway. Closets seem to be made to bulge at the seams for want of all the niches, large and small, that would be necessary for proper storage.

A WELL thought - out closet design can help in achieving some semblance of order.

Working with an architect, builder or family do-it-yourselfer in advance of closets being built, may forestall those dead spots. One big one usually is the top shelf, another is to the side of the closet door behind the part of the wall into which the door frame fits.

Builders argue that this is "free space" you wouldn't have otherwise, but a small door above the main door would give free access to the other shelf, and sliding doors or folding louver doors could be a logical choice to free all the space.

Linen closet shelves often are too deep for proper use, so that we never fully use linens that get stashed away at the rear, especially on the top shelf.

The solution could be roll-out shelves or bins on rollers. That way we could reach the back of the closet and use the linens in the rear occasionally.

SHEER inventiveness in solving such problems often results from necessity.

A lady who wanted to photograph fitted sheets in a neat closet was at her wit's end. After all, thought Bess Williams, how in the world can you keep a closet neat if you must file away fitted sheets each way. Folding them may be simplified when you get the hang of it, but making a nice neat package for your closet is another.

In thinking about the problem she came up with a great idea.

"Why not put them in a honeycomb rack, the kind you use for wine bottles?"

But wine racks would be rather costly, she thought, reconsidering.

Never one to be stymied by some problem connected with her job, Bess did just what comes naturally.

She found cardboard cartons that had the same little honeycomb inside at the grocery store. These are the boxes used for vinegar, soda pop, juices and so on.

TWIN-BED size sheets fit snuggly into quart - size cubbyholes. For double - bed sheets, she folded down one flap, turning two cubbyholes into a larger oblong cubbyhole.

Cartons holding half - gallon beverages often come in the larger compartment, Bess found, three doubles in a box. These are more adjustable to available space. You can stack them one on top of the other.

Bess tried three ways of brightening up the store boxes for pictures she needed of Sanforized sheets in time for the white sales.

She painted the boxes. She wallpapered others. New papers like quilted fabric seem ideal for linen closets, she says. She also tried vinyl paper with self-adhesive from which a backing is removed before it is pressed into place.

She could visualize, too, covering the boxes with fabric such as mattress ticking, and she liked a finishing touch on paper-covered boxes, such as binding the edges with solid color half-inch plastic tape for a color accent.

The idea is a good one to keep in mind when building a closet or converting one.

You could have a unit such as that built right into the closet or a removable unit of inexpensive wood, plywood or plastic that could slide into a closet.

Nazi Slogans Hit U.S. Units In Germany

BAMBERG, Germany (AP) — The rash of anti-Semitic, pro-Nazi incidents plaguing Bamberg took a new twist Sunday — a condemnation of U.S. soldiers stationed in this community in Southern Germany.

Police reported that during the night, vandals smeared red swastikas, the letters SS, referring to the Nazi elite guard troops who once ran the Third Reich's extermination centers, and the old Hitlerian phrase "Sieg heil" (hail victory) on the walls of a U.S. Army munitions depot.

Also smeared on the depot were the words "U.S. Army — Sex Fiends," and the statement:

"We are the German resistance movement and call out: Germany awake. After 20 years, our folk demands a general amnesty. Our fatherland does not need any Jewish tutelage."

The vandals also sprayed yellow paint — reminiscent of the color used for the Stars of David that Jews were forced to wear during the Nazi era — on the sign of a textile firm owned by Jesse Rosenberg, head of Bamberg's dwingling Jewish community.

The latest smearings brought to eight the number of anti-Semitic incidents in Bamberg since June 13.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — A new policyholder wrote a Chattanooga insurance firm to question the number on his computer-prepared policy: 22470804-26310293200000740000000000 - 00008.

He said he had a doctor's degree in electrical engineering and pointed out knowingly:

"There are about 15,000 grains of dirt or sand in every ounce of earth. If you were to insure every little grain by issuing an individually numbered policy to each ... the number on my policy is still many hundred billion times greater."

Building Permits Show June Gain

Thanks to one major project, new construction and remodeling estimated to cost $387,475 got under way in East Liverpool in June, an increase of $314,605 from May's $72,870.

Mayor Merrill D. Hall's office issued 19 building permits last month, topped by the authorization for the new $350,000 Inn Town Motel on E. 3rd St. Plans for the project were announced several weeks ago by Mike Pusateri, John R. Woomer and his father, J. Ray Woomer.

The younger Woomer obtained the building permit and furnished the estimate of the cost.

Two more permits for a total of $26,500 authorized construction of new homes.

Chester Brown, contractor, obtained a permit to erect a $15,000 home for William Bricker on Maine Blvd. The White Construction Co. took out a permit to build an $11,500 home at 840 Grandview Ave. for John Mullen.

In the preceding month, permits were issued for three new homes at an estimated cost of $35,000.

The other permits last month were concerned primarily with summer maintenance and remodeling work on residential property.

Here are the other permits of June, listing the persons to whom they were issued, the work anticipated and the estimated cost of each job:

G. D. Anthony, to remodel a porch on a home at 315 Ridgeway Ave., $250.

James Elliott, to install a new bath and furnace at 867 Fairview St., $1,100.

Karole Kapp, to remodel a bath in a home at 223 W. 2nd St., $250.

D. R. McGillivray, to construct a retaining wall at 817 Crestview Dr., $500.

Harry Early, to remodel a garage at 1830 Smithfield St., $150.

John Evces, to install a new roof on a home at 505 Oakland Ave., $275.

Lawrence Shiveley, to construct a new driveway at 112 Ravine St., $450.

Gerald Watkins, to remodel a basement at 1732 Holliday St., $300.

John Fulmer Jr., to install aluminum siding on a home at S. Shady Ln., Dr., $1,000.

Gordon Brick, to remodel buildings at 114 W. 3rd St. and 113 and 117 W. Sellers Alley, $1,500.

Lloyd Cunningham, to remodel a home at 322 Vine St., $2,000.

Dr. J. W. Schoolnic, to install a new roof on a building at 130 W. 5th St., $400.

Leonard Coursin, to add a bedroom to a home on Henry Ave., $500.

Robert Buchheit, to construct a workshop at 844 Louise St., $500.

Charles Everson, to erect a garage at 1170 Pennsylvania Ave., $1,500.

In addition, two permits were issued for razing of buildings.

Harry Shields was given authorization to tear down a commercial building at 519 Mulberry St. He estimated the cost at $300.

Mrs. Elizabeth Brown received a permit to tear down a structure at the rear of 806 St. Clair Ave. No estimate was made of the cost.

Blanket Insulation Proves Excellent And Economical

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

There are many types of insulation available today, but, in my opinion, blanket insulation made of inorganic material and topped with moisture - proof covering is about the best buy for the average home owner.

The modern blanket insulation comes in rolls of exactly the proper width to fit between the wall studs or rafters of any house constructed according to correct building practice.

Both sides of the insulation have a flange which permits it to be stapled to the studs or rafters with speed and ease. Aside from the stapling tool, the only other equipment needed is a pair of sharp scissors or a keen knife to cut the roll to correct lengths.

Good blanket insulation is two inches thick and when stapled to the inner face of a stud or rafter leaves a two - inch air space between the inside face of the sheathing and the outside face of the blanket, this providing for the evaporation of any moisture which might accumulate on the sheathing and cause dampness.

Another good feature of blanket insulation is that it can be cut into small pieces which may be tucked around window or louvre frames, and so present a tight fit against loss of heat or draft from the outside.

Pieces of it can be used almost as caulking in odd corners or along the joint between attic floor and the sloping lower end of the roof.

Blanket insulation is made of many materials, but the most satisfactory of all is the type which is vermin -proof, non-absorbent and fireproof.

Before we knew as much about insulation as we know today, it was not unusual to find home owners using a material which was quite attractive to mice and insects, with the result that they bred in it and became a serious problem. Today's best insulation is both vermin and insect repellent.

The first U.S. mint was established in Philadelphia, Pa., then the nation's capital, by the Act of April 2, 1792, which provided for gold, silver and copper coinage.

How To Avoid Closet 'Dead Spots'

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

House hunters on the prowl note that a great many new homes still do not build closets to suit modern needs.

But in most homes a closet would need to be tailored to suit the family, anyway. Closets seem to be made to bulge at the seams for want of all the niches, large and small, that would be necessary for proper storage.

A WELL thought - out closet design can help in achieving some semblance of order.

Working with an architect, builder or family do-it-yourselfer in advance of closets being built, may forestall those dead spots. One big one usually is the top shelf, another is to the side of the closet door behind the part of the wall into which the door frame fits.

Builders argue that this is "free space" you wouldn't have otherwise, but a small door above the main door would give free access to the other shelf, and sliding doors or folding louver doors could be a logical choice to free all the space.

Linen closet shelves often are too deep for proper use, so that we never fully use linens that get stashed away at the rear, especially on the top shelf.

The solution could be roll-out shelves or bins on rollers. That way we could reach the back of the closet and use the linens in the rear occasionally.

SHEER inventiveness in solving such problems often results from necessity.

A lady who wanted to photograph fitted sheets in a neat closet was at her wit's end. After all, thought Bess Williams, how in the world can you keep a closet neat if you must file away fitted sheets each way. Folding them may be simplified when you get the hang of it, but making a nice neat package for your closet is another.

In thinking about the problem she came up with a great idea.

"Why not put them in a honeycomb rack, the kind you use for wine bottles?"

But wine racks would be rather costly, she thought, reconsidering.

Never one to be stymied by some problem connected with her job, Bess did just what comes naturally.

She found cardboard cartons that had the same little honeycomb inside at the grocery store. These are the boxes used for vinegar, soda pop, juices and so on.

TWIN-BED size sheets fit snuggly into quart - size cubbyholes. For double - bed sheets, she folded down one flap, turning two cubbyholes into a larger oblong cubbyhole.

Cartons holding half - gallon beverages often come in the larger compartment, Bess found, three doubles in a box. These are more adjustable to available space. You can stack them one on top of the other.

Bess tried three ways of brightening up the store boxes for pictures she needed of Sanforized sheets in time for the white sales.

If Buying, These Tips Will Help

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

When looking over an old house with the intention of buying, just how far can you go in testing things while the owner is present?

Business or no business, it is sometimes a bit embarrassing to rattle doorknobs, flush water closets, pound walls and wield tape measures during an inspection of the premises — unless the real estate broker has brought you there when the owner is away.

PERHAPS a good guideline for prospective purchasers is this: on the first visit, ask questions and get a general idea of whether this is the kind of house you might like to buy at or near the asking price.

On the second visit, get down to the serious work of looking into the details, either by further questions or closer examinations, or both.

The owner can hardly resent your attitude this time, since now he knows you are a probable or possible buyer and not just a looker.

You can get some idea of the efficiency of the plumbing system in an existing house with a few simple tests.

Close the drains in the bathtub and bathroom sink and fill them with water. If the water is rusty, find out why. If there is a sucking sound when the water drains, be suspicious of siphonage of the trap, not always easy to correct.

A SINGLE leaky faucet doesn't mean anything and can be fixed with a new washer.

But if many faucets are leaking, it indicates a general condition of disrepair and is somewhat of a warning signal.

Flush the water closet and see how smoothly it operates. If it takes a long time for the bowl to refill, water pressure in the house may be poor or the toilet tank equipment may need adjustment or replacement.

Poor pressure also is indicated if you turn on the faucet in the kitchen and then, when you turn it on in the bathroom, the water in either or both places slows to a trickle.

The water heater or hot-water storage tank should bear the label of the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Since much of the workmanship that went into the plumbing installation is hidden — and good workmanship is as important as good materials — it is sometimes difficult to weigh the value of a plumbing system.

But by making the simple tests previously mentioned—and calling in a plumber if you feel that something is wrong — you can avoid major trouble right after making your purchase.

Laying Of Carpet Takes Care, Skill

Question: We have just purchased some broadloom for our living room. After hearing how much it would cost to install it wall - to - wall, I have decided to try my hand at putting it down. What advice can you give me?

Answer: You'd better do more than "try your hand" at it or you're going to regret you started it.

In short, installing wall - to - wall carpeting is nothing to undertake unless you (1) are generally handy, (2) you have had some experience at it or, at the least, have watched somebody else do it, and (3) you are prepared for a reasonably rugged task which may require the assistance of another person.

If you meet all these qualifications and wish to go ahead, you might try using grippers along the edges of the walls. Grippers are one-inch strips of wood with rows of sharp pins set at an angle.

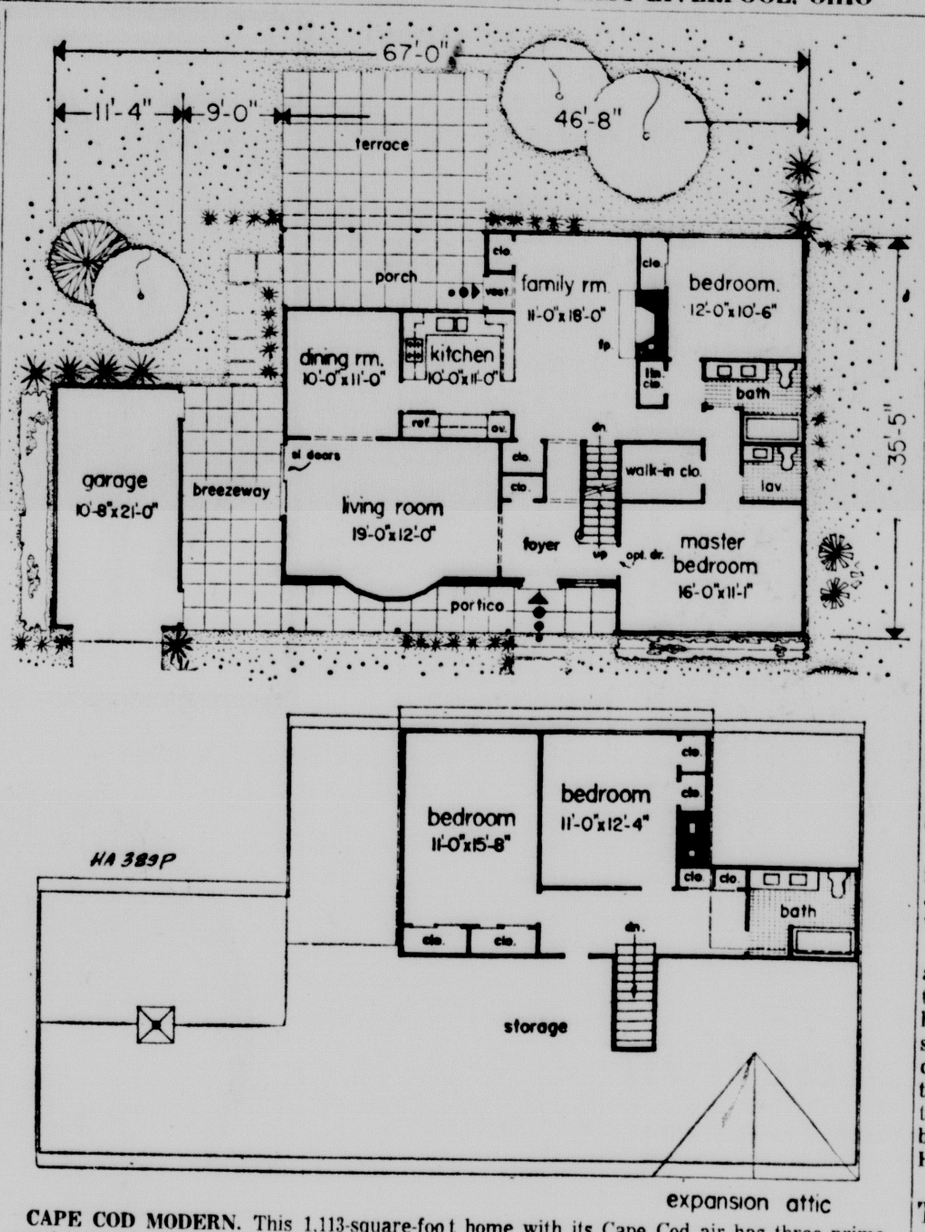

The under-padding is laid on the floor up to but not on the grippers. The broadloom goes over the nails, which are set at such an angle that they permit the rug to stretch a little at a time while still holding it in place.

The most important thing needed for laying broadloom is a knee - kicker, which can be bought but which you probably can borrow or rent from the company which sold you the broadloom.

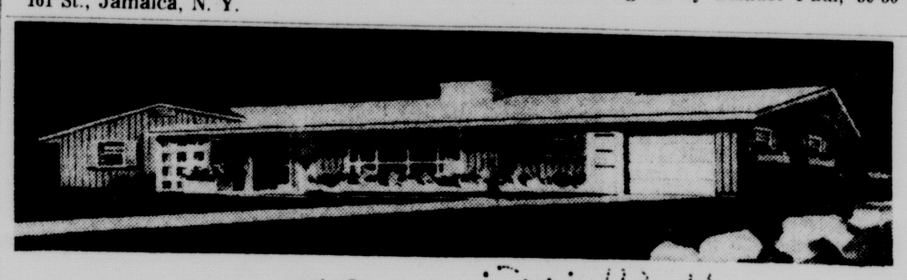

This gadget is placed on the floor in position (have the dealer show you how to use it) and has a padded end which is kicked with the knee.

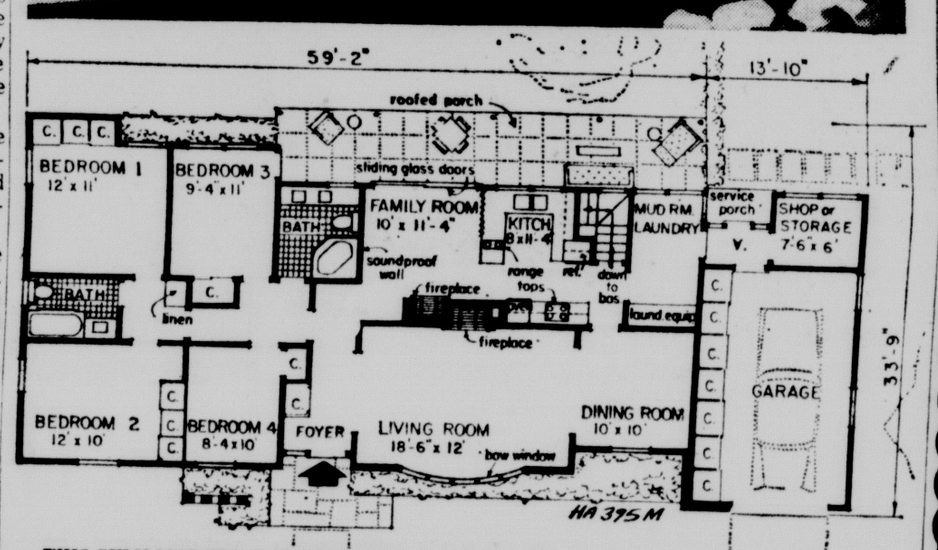

This stretches and sets the rug smoothly across the floor. Without this tool, you will have a difficult time doing a good job. Remember that, wherever the rug must be cut to fit, use a sharp knife and cut along the backing fabric, never into the face of the carpet.

CAPE COD MODERN. This 1,113-square-foot home with its Cape Cod air has three prime requisites; ample elbow room at a moderate price, built-in expansion space and good resale value. Its basic plan calls for two bedrooms with a bath and a half. But in the attic is enough extra room for two more bedrooms and a full bath. Features include an informal area which revolves around the kitchen, family room and porch terrace, and the more formal living room with its bow-shaped window which can be shut away from the noise and bustle of the family. Closet space is generous, and the master bedroom can be easily converted into office or den when the house is expanded. Plan HA 389P was designed by Samuel Paul, 89-30 161 St., Jamaica, N. Y.

THIS SEMI-MODERN RANCH HOUSE, is designed to meet the long range needs of a family. When a family is young and needs only two bedrooms, the third and fourth can serve as playroom and den. As the faimly grows and requires more sleeping quarters, the family room performs the function of a study. When children are grown and move to homes of their own, the four original bedrooms can simply be converted into two suites, each with its own bath. With less need for storage space, the storage room can become either hot house or a workshop retreat for the man of the family. This flexible plan HA395M, provides 1429 square feet of living space. The architect is Rudolph A. Matern, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica, N. Y.

Driver Flees After Mishap

Police continued a hunt Sunday night for a motorist who fled after his car was involved in a collision with a local woman's auto at St. Clair Ave. and Walnut St.

Mrs. Dorothy B. Winters, 34, of St. Clair Ave. told police the auto with Pennsylvania license tags failed to halt after a hit-skip collision at 11:50 a.m. Sunday that damaged the left door and panel of her 1956 sedan.

Mrs. Winters said she was making a left turn off St. Clair Ave. on to Walnut St. when the other auto pulled out of Walnut St., struck the rear of her car and continued without stopping. She reported the collision to Patrolman Jerry F. Adkins at headquarters and furnished him with the license number of the offending car.

Another auto was damaged in a mishap Saturday at 9:20 p.m. on McKee St., first traffic accident in East Liverpool since early Friday morning.

The mishap involved a 1955 four-door sedan driven by James E. Hatcher, 40, of Wellsville R.D. 1.

Hatcher told Patrolman Leonard E. Richard he was backing to allow another car to pass him on the hillside when his car slid over an embankment because of the soft shoulder on the road. The mishap damaged the right side of the auto, owned by Tom Carnegie Auto Sales of Harvey Ave., police said.

LISBON — Cars driven by Paul E. Kampfer, 36, of Elkton and Jerome Mason, 17, of Lisbon R.D. 5 collided at 3:20 p.m. Sunday on E. Chestnut St.

Police said both cars were traveling west and Mason attempted to turn left into an alley west of Harrison St. just as Kampfer tried to pass him.

There was damage to the left front fender and door of Mason's car, none to Kampfer's, police said. No one was cited.

House Checking

If Buying, These Tips Will Help

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

When looking over an old house with the intention of buying, just how far can you go in testing things while the owner is present?

Business or no business, it is sometimes a bit embarrassing to rattle doorknobs, flush water closets, pound walls and wield tape measures during an inspection of the premises — unless the real estate broker has brought you there when the owner is away.

PERHAPS a good guideline for prospective purchasers is this: on the first visit, ask questions and get a general idea of whether this is the kind of house you might like to buy at or near the asking price.

On the second visit, get down to the serious work of looking into the details, either by further questions or closer examinations, or both.

The owner can hardly resent your attitude this time, since now he knows you are a probable or possible buyer and not just a looker.

You can get some idea of the efficiency of the plumbing system in an existing house with a few simple tests.

Close the drains in the bathtub and bathroom sink and fill them with water. If the water is rusty, find out why. If there is a sucking sound when the water drains, be suspicious of siphonage of the trap, not always easy to correct.

A SINGLE leaky faucet doesn't mean anything and can be fixed with a new washer.

But if many faucets are leaking, it indicates a general condition of disrepair and is somewhat of a warning signal.

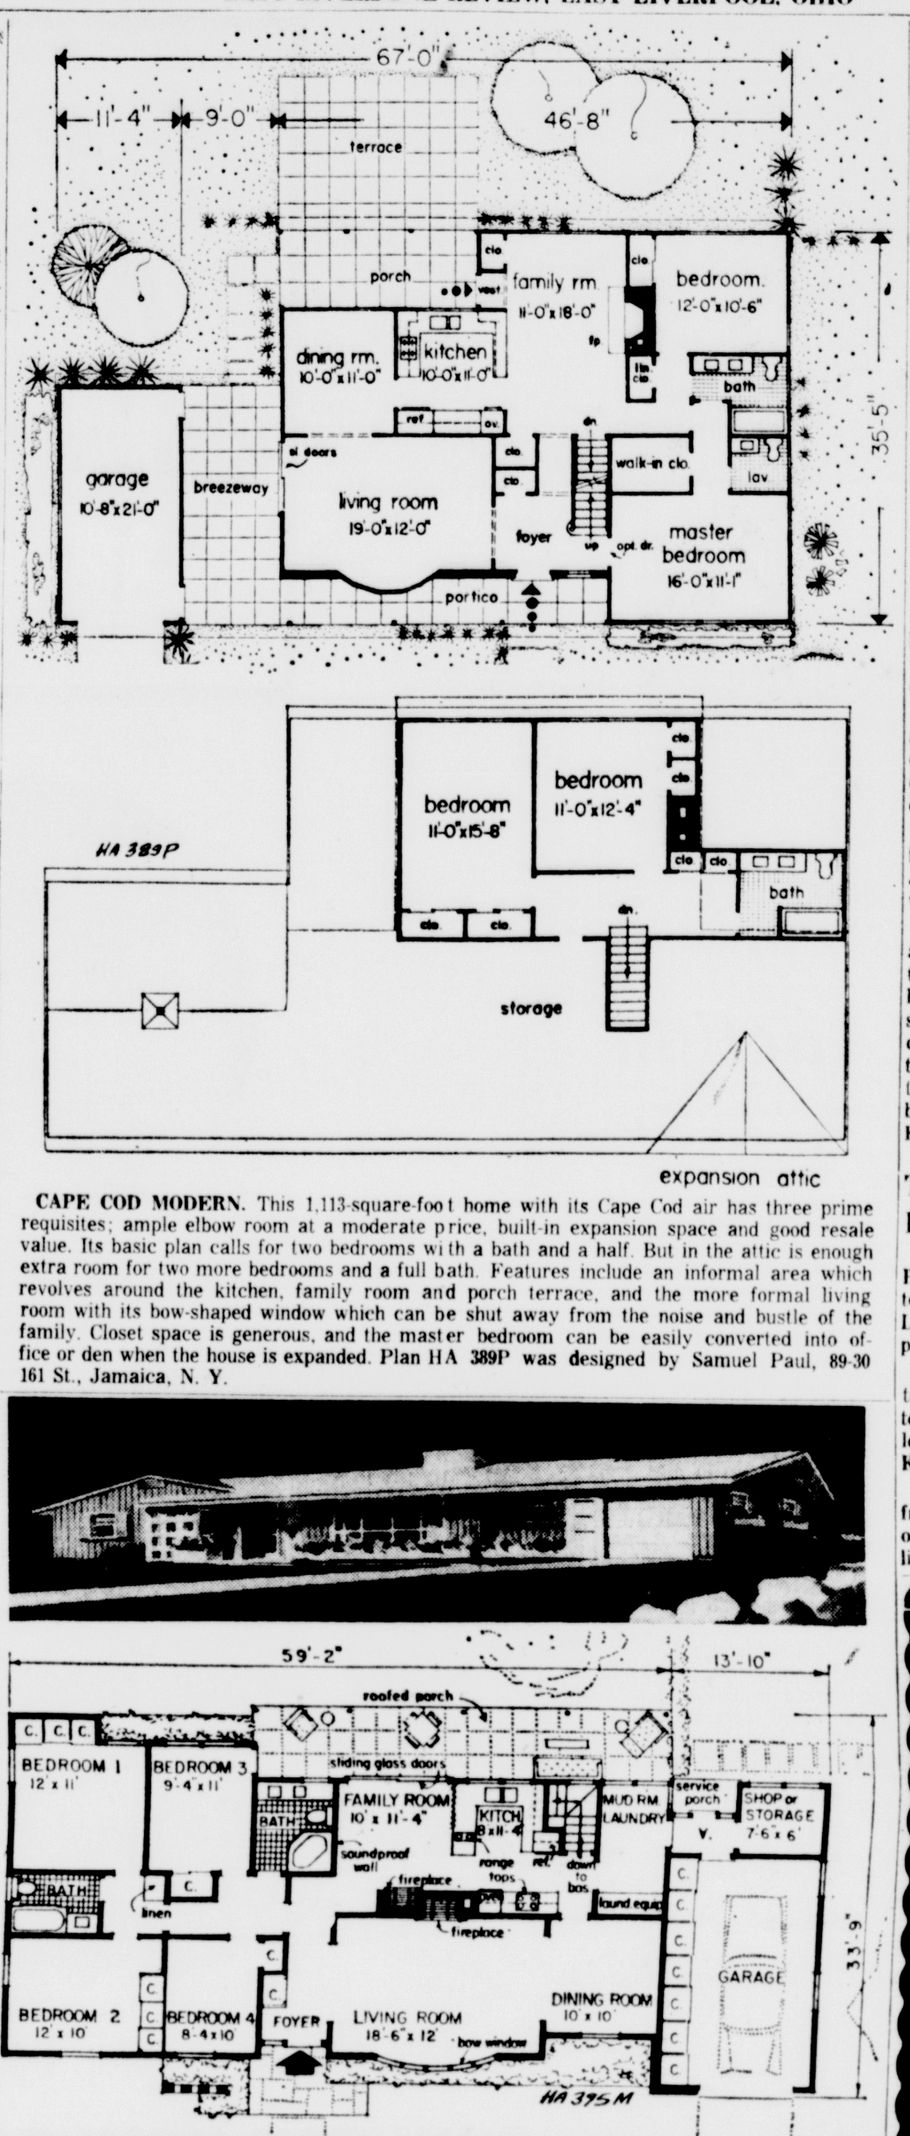

Flush the water closet and see how smoothly it operates. If it takes a long time for the bowl to refill, water pressure in the house may be poor or the toilet tank equipment may need adjustment or replacement.

Poor pressure also is indicated if you turn on the faucet in the kitchen and then, when you turn it on in the bathroom, the water in either or both places slows to a trickle.

The water heater or hot-water storage tank should bear the label of the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Since much of the workmanship that went into the plumbing installation is hidden — and good workmanship is as important as good materials — it is sometimes difficult to weigh the value of a plumbing system.

But by making the simple tests previously mentioned—and calling in a plumber if you feel that something is wrong — you can avoid major trouble right after making your purchase.

Honest Cafe Owner Given 'Run-Around'

MULLINVILLE, Kan. (AP) — Mrs. John Sherer noticed a billfold on a table in her cafe and saw a couple driving away from her restaurant.

She grabbed the billfold, hopped into her car and gave chase for more than three miles

She handed the billfold to a very surprised man who said it wasn't his, so Mrs. Sherer returned to her restaurant with it.

There she found a customer waiting. He had put the billfold on the table while he went to the cashier's stand to settle his bill.

You May Find Treasure At Auction

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Young married people can feather their first nests at country auctions. Cheap, too. It's the ideal way to have an interesting first home on a limited budget.

Typical wares usually include outdoor and indoor furniture, tools, equipment, fabrics, pottery, glass, cooking equipment, china.

A good sturdy ladder, for example, is a good sturdy ladder. If one can get it for 10 per cent of what it costs new, why not.

An old - fashioned idea that put many young couples in debt for decades was that the first home must shine like Christmas tinsel with everything new. Nowadays, one takes time to make wise purchases, trying to get as much value as possible for the dollar.

A LIST of things needed and a preview of what's for sale will keep one from being sidetracked to bargains that may wind up in the basement. Anything bought should be in good condition. There's always enough to do in a new home without trying to rebuild everything you buy.

Men are the biggest deterrents to women's enjoyment of an auction, unless persuaded at the outset that there are a few good buys with man - appeal. Spot an eagle quickly or a few decoys or a weathervane, old musket or a sword to corral male interest. Men like fireplace equipment, too — fenders, andirons, bellows, cranes and so on.

At any country auction with a good supply, you should see at least 10 things that you have never seen before. People didn't throw things agway in the old days, they just stuck them in the barn or attic.

Give an odd gizmo a second thought before you figure out how to use it. Especially if it is a thing well - contrived, well-decorated or good material. It can be converted to something useful.

AT JUST about any summer auction in New England for instance, someone will hold up a cranberry picker and say, "Now what can you do with this?" Well, these can make good investments. Dress designer Pauline Trigere uses one on a wall of her house to hold magazines. Or use it to hold yarn.

There are lots of uses for good old things:

Washboard racks can be used as tray stands.

Footstoves may be electrified and used on the wall.

Woven and quilted coverlets are useful for just that — on beds. In bad condition, a woven coverlet is still usable to cover a chair or settee, discarding the bad portions.

Old picture frames can jazz up a wall until you get some decent art. Choose a deep frame, put a shelf in it, and place a small bowl of real or artificial flowers in it. Old sugar bowls, minus tops, served well as flower bowls.

Large wash stands are ideally used as planters.

Porcelain wash basins found in wash stand sets make delightful hanging receptacles for flowers. Set in a mesh of wire these may be suspended from the ceiling to hold plants.

—:—

ENORMOUS wrought iron cauldrons, brass or copper pots can be filled with pots of flowers and used to decorate the lawn.

Crewel or other embroidered draperies are found on occasion. If these do not fit exactly, frame them in a border of linen or other fabric.

Two circular old tables of different sizes can be made into a lazy Susan design in a project well worth the effort. Four sewing machine stands fanning out can serve as a base. It may take a few auctions to round up the machine stands but if you are persistent you'll find them. Paint them black, gold, white, colors or what have you.

Good beds, chests, chairs and rockers are available at most auctions. And there are always interesting jugs, bottles, vases and even newell stair posts that make distinctive lamps when sent off to be wired.

Sniper

Moeller, shot at a tour bus with about 45 passengers aboard, and later at a second bus.

Three wounded tourists required medical attention. They were Mr. and Mrs. Pete Montoya of Denver, Colo., and Mrs. Edith Hendrick of South Weymouth, Mass.

Mrs. Montoya, 51, was in serious condition with a bullet wound in her abdomen.

Her husband, 54, was in satisfactory condition with a wound in the thigh. Mrs. Hendrick, 65, was treated and released for a minor wound in her leg.

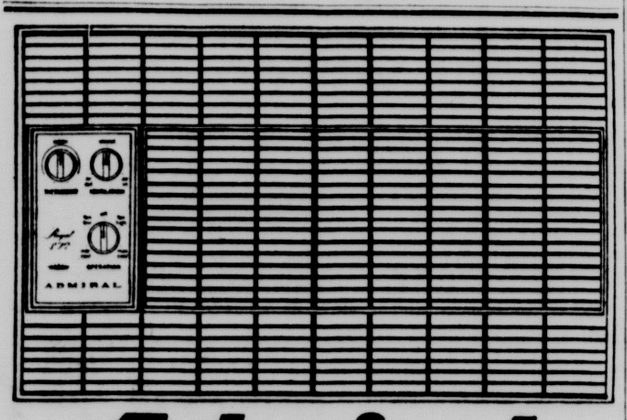

After the shootings, more than 100 policemen converged at the Pali lookout.

The three officers were hit about three hours after the initial sniping attack.

Moeller, an Air Force veteran, was committed to the state hospital at Kaneohe last February after he was indicted by a grand jury in connection with another sniping incident in which one person was wounded last December.

A hospital spokesman said Moeller was discharged because "he was not believed to be psychotic."

Honest Cafe Owner Given 'Run-Around'

MULLINVILLE, Kan. (AP) — Mrs. John Sherer noticed a billfold on a table in her cafe and saw a couple driving away from her restaurant.

She grabbed the billfold, hopped into her car and gave chase for more than three miles

She handed the billfold to a very surprised man who said it wasn't his, so Mrs. Sherer returned to her restaurant with it.

There she found a customer waiting. He had put the billfold on the table while he went to the cashier's stand to settle his bill.

You May Find Treasure At Auction

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Young married people can feather their first nests at country auctions. Cheap, too. It's the ideal way to have an interesting first home on a limited budget.

Typical wares usually include outdoor and indoor furniture, tools, equipment, fabrics, pottery, glass, cooking equipment, china.

A good sturdy ladder, for example, is a good sturdy ladder. If one can get it for 10 per cent of what it costs new, why not.

An old - fashioned idea that put many young couples in debt for decades was that the first home must shine like Christmas tinsel with everything new. Nowadays, one takes time to make wise purchases, trying to get as much value as possible for the dollar.

A LIST of things needed and a preview of what's for sale will keep one from being sidetracked to bargains that may wind up in the basement. Anything bought should be in good condition. There's always enough to do in a new home without trying to rebuild everything you buy.

Men are the biggest deterrents to women's enjoyment of an auction, unless persuaded at the outset that there are a few good buys with man - appeal. Spot an eagle quickly or a few decoys or a weathervane, old musket or a sword to corral male interest. Men like fireplace equipment, too — fenders, andirons, bellows, cranes and so on.

At any country auction with a good supply, you should see at least 10 things that you have never seen before. People didn't throw things agway in the old days, they just stuck them in the barn or attic.

Give an odd gizmo a second thought before you figure out how to use it. Especially if it is a thing well - contrived, well-decorated or good material. It can be converted to something useful.

AT JUST about any summer auction in New England for instance, someone will hold up a cranberry picker and say, "Now what can you do with this?" Well, these can make good investments. Dress designer Pauline Trigere uses one on a wall of her house to hold magazines. Or use it to hold yarn.

There are lots of uses for good old things:

Washboard racks can be used as tray stands.

Footstoves may be electrified and used on the wall.

Woven and quilted coverlets are useful for just that — on beds. In bad condition, a woven coverlet is still usable to cover a chair or settee, discarding the bad portions.

Old picture frames can jazz up a wall until you get some decent art. Choose a deep frame, put a shelf in it, and place a small bowl of real or artificial flowers in it. Old sugar bowls, minus tops, served well as flower bowls.

Large wash stands are ideally used as planters.

Porcelain wash basins found in wash stand sets make delightful hanging receptacles for flowers. Set in a mesh of wire these may be suspended from the ceiling to hold plants.

—:—

ENORMOUS wrought iron cauldrons, brass or copper pots can be filled with pots of flowers and used to decorate the lawn.

Crewel or other embroidered draperies are found on occasion. If these do not fit exactly, frame them in a border of linen or other fabric.

Two circular old tables of different sizes can be made into a lazy Susan design in a project well worth the effort. Four sewing machine stands fanning out can serve as a base. It may take a few auctions to round up the machine stands but if you are persistent you'll find them. Paint them black, gold, white, colors or what have you.

Good beds, chests, chairs and rockers are available at most auctions. And there are always interesting jugs, bottles, vases and even newell stair posts that make distinctive lamps when sent off to be wired.

Moeller, shot at a tour bus with about 45 passengers aboard, and later at a second bus.

Three wounded tourists required medical attention. They were Mr. and Mrs. Pete Montoya of Denver, Colo., and Mrs. Edith Hendrick of South Weymouth, Mass.

Mrs. Montoya, 51, was in serious condition with a bullet wound in her abdomen.

Her husband, 54, was in satisfactory condition with a wound in the thigh. Mrs. Hendrick, 65, was treated and released for a minor wound in her leg.

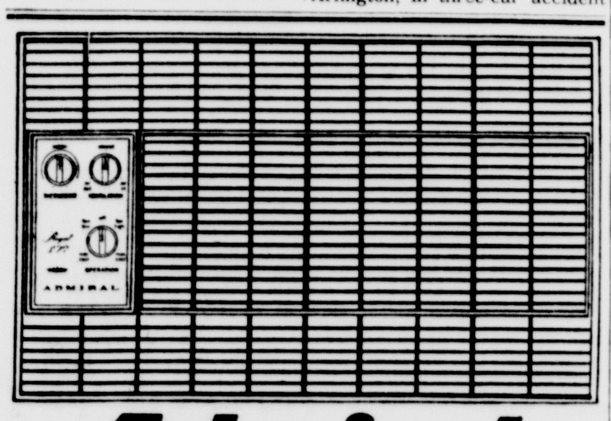

After the shootings, more than 100 policemen converged at the Pali lookout.

The three officers were hit about three hours after the initial sniping attack.

Moeller, an Air Force veteran, was committed to the state hospital at Kaneohe last February after he was indicted by a grand jury in connection with another sniping incident in which one person was wounded last December.

A hospital spokesman said Moeller was discharged because "he was not believed to be psychotic."

South Accepts Rights Act

By DON MCKEE

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Public Law 88-352 in one year brought about more racial desegregation of the South than all the laws, court edicts and street demonstrations of the past century.

Acceptance of the bitterly fought Civil Rights Act has been widespread and generally lacking both in legal resistance and violence.

"The degree of compliance was surprising even to us," said a key figure in the civil rights drive, the Rev Andrew J. Young of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

"We did not anticipate the response or even a majority of the cities of the South as it has occurred," Young said.

Roy Wilkins, executive director of the NAACP, recently described the implementation of the law in parts of the South as "token . . . but rather startling."

Compliance tests throughout the South met general success in public accommodations after President Johnson signed the law a year ago.

A symbolic action came when Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. several months ago took a room at the Hotel Albert in Selma, Ala. The hotel was built with Negro slave labor.

Less dramatic was the lowering of racial barriers in hotels, motels, restaurants and lunch counters in the larger cities of the South.

Most southern school systems have submitted desegregation plans for next term in view of the law's provision for cutting off federal funds to segregated schools.

A substantial percentage of these plans provides for voluntary desegregation of all 12 grades next fall, the Office of Education has reported.

There are other problems, however.

"There is bitter irony in the plight of the Negro teachers in the South — they are falling victim to the civil rights law which was designed for their benefit," said Dr. Dave Darland of the National Education Association staff in a New York interview.

Darland said hundreds of Negro teachers were losing their jobs — wiped out in some instances by desegregation of the classrooms. Scattered examples: eight Negro teachers were unemployed after 180 of their 184 pupils applied for transfer to white schools in Morrilton, Ark. Three teachers went to court in Hendersonville, N.C., to protect their jobs after desegregation.

The section on voting—which authorizes the attorney general to file suit against discriminatory practices—apparently has been least effective of the law's provisions. The Justice Department has, however, filed several important suits including one last week asking suspension of a special new test for voter applicants in Marengo County, Alabama.

That was the 75th voting rights suit filed by the department.

Registration of Negroes has been increasing steadily in the South; resistance continues to weaken in the rural areas and is virtually nonexistent in the larger urban areas.

Despite widespread compliance with the law, particularly the public accommodations section, the racial patterns have not changed drastically. Relatively few Negroes take advantage of desegregated restaurants, hotels and similar facilities.

In Mississippi, Negro voter registration and school desegregation stem more from court orders than the Civil Rights Act.

The law's antijob discrimination section became effective Friday. NAACP attorneys plan to file complaints shortly under the section against major corporations. Southern businessmen have been preparing for implementation of this provision of the law — warning employes that qualified Negroes must be hired.

Negroes already have broken into the higher level of jobs in some of the big businesses which have federal contracts; in Atlanta, a special civil rights project put hundreds of Negroes in better paying jobs.

Civil rights leaders, such as Wilkins and Young, expect even greater gains during the next year, with considerable emphasis on political power under the proposed voting rights law.

Mayor Ivan Allen Jr. of Atlanta said enactment of the civil rights law last year removed the businessman's fear of unfair advantage by segregated restaurants or hotels.

"The other significant thing," said Allen who supported the law, "is that the terrible discomforts and hardships painted by the opposition simply have not come about."

House Hearings Planned On Army Reorganization

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whether Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara will be able to carry out his planned reorganization of the Army reserves may be determined at hearings beginning July 19.

That's when a House Armed Services subcommittee intends to take a new look at the disputed program to merge Army reserve units into the National Guard.

The subcommittee, which appeared cool to the merger in earlier hearings, will study supporting legislation McNamara agreed to submit to Congress — and which the House said was needed to authorrize the merger

"I'm going to give Pentagon officials carte blanche to prove their case for the merger," chairman F. Edward Hebert, D-La., said in an interview.

"They can call whatever witnesses they want and in whatever order they want. But I'm going to give carte blanche to the opponents of the merger to argue their case too."

Hebert and his subcommittee appear to be in a stronger position now to decide the merger's fate than when they opened hearings in March.

When McNamara announced the proposal last December he argued that he needed no congressional authority to carry out the merger other than a simple change in appropriations for the guard and reserves.

He asked that the line in the appropriation measure calling for 400,000 men in the Army National Guard and 300,000 in the Army reserves be changed to a single heading with a total strength of 575,000.

But the merger's path was far from smooth. It set off a controversy in the military as well as Congress. And both House and Senate Armed Services subcommittees called the plan an effort to detour congressional authority and questioned whether it would add to or detract from national security.

On May 15, McNamara appeared at a news conference with Hebert and said the "hearings have indicated that certain legislative changes are necessary if the realignment plan is to fully achieve our ultimate objectives."

And he submitted for congressional approval what he described as supporting legislation — the most important of which would be authority to attach reservists to the National Guard.

McNamara's plan suffered another setback last month when the House Appropriations Committee — then the House itself — refused to clear the way for the merger.

One source expressed strong doubts Hebert's subcommittee would confine itself to the supporting legislation McNamara proposed. The source said the subcommittee probably would write legislation specifically authorizing the merger or blocking it.

Trustees Given Streets' Report

Road crews have been occupied with Chavel St., Adler St., Dewey Ave. Ext. and Ruth St.

The trustees said calls have been received from residents expressing appreciation for the weed-cutting that has taken place the last two weeks.

Bills totaling $2,162.94 were paid.

The trustees will meet July 16 at 7:30 p.m. in the Little Building.

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Taft Broadcasting Co.'s radio and television stations in Cincinnati and Columbus have underwritten scholarships for four students to attend Ohio State University.

Lawrence Rogers II, Taft president, said WKRC-TV and radio in Cincinnati selected Larry Miller and Carl Press Jr., both of Cincinnati while WTVN-TV and radio in Columbus picked Michael Allen Krupnick of Columbus and Tom Stork of Kettering.

That's when a House Armed Services subcommittee intends to take a new look at the disputed program to merge Army reserve units into the National Guard.

The subcommittee, which appeared cool to the merger in earlier hearings, will study supporting legislation McNamara agreed to submit to Congress — and which the House said was needed to authorrize the merger

"I'm going to give Pentagon officials carte blanche to prove their case for the merger," chairman F. Edward Hebert, D-La., said in an interview.

"They can call whatever witnesses they want and in whatever order they want. But I'm going to give carte blanche to the opponents of the merger to argue their case too."

Hebert and his subcommittee appear to be in a stronger position now to decide the merger's fate than when they opened hearings in March.

When McNamara announced the proposal last December he argued that he needed no congressional authority to carry out the merger other than a simple change in appropriations for the guard and reserves.

He asked that the line in the appropriation measure calling for 400,000 men in the Army National Guard and 300,000 in the Army reserves be changed to a single heading with a total strength of 575,000.

But the merger's path was far from smooth. It set off a controversy in the military as well as Congress. And both House and Senate Armed Services subcommittees called the plan an effort to detour congressional authority and questioned whether it would add to or detract from national security.

On May 15, McNamara appeared at a news conference with Hebert and said the "hearings have indicated that certain legislative changes are necessary if the realignment plan is to fully achieve our ultimate objectives."

And he submitted for congressional approval what he described as supporting legislation — the most important of which would be authority to atiach reservists to the National Guard.

McNamara's plan suffered another setback last month when the House Appropriations Committee — then the House itself — refused to clear the way for the merger.

One source expressed strong doubts Hebert's subcommittee would confine itself to the supporting legislation McNamara proposed. The source said the subcommittee probably would write legislation specifically authorizing the merger or block ing it.

Trustees Given Streets' Report

A progress report on street work was given when the Liverpool Township trustees met Friday night.

Road crews have been occupied with Chavel St., Adler St., Dewey Ave. Ext. and Ruth St.

The trustees said calls have been received from residents expressing appreciation for the weed-cutting that has taken place the last two weeks.

Bills totaling $2,162.94 were paid.

The trustees will meet July 16 at 7:30 p.m. in the Little Building.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the woman who wanted to know if the dying can hear what is being said at the bedside brought back some fascinating memories. Several years ago I was seriously ill. My hospital room was filled with relatives who had come to be with me "at the end."

I was aware of everyone who was present and I heard every word that was said. A sister-in-law warned that my mother should not be allowed to raise my children because she didn't have the proper temperament.

She added, "I will take the older girl, but I don't want the younger one." In the same breath this sister-in-law said, "And I want her fur coat."

A few moments later another sister-in-law announced it was dinner time and someone should go for food. She and her husband left and returned with hamburgers, french fries and coffee.

I heard such remarks as, "Who wants theirs with onions?" and, "Gee, this is lousy coffee."

I don't know if it was the smell of the onions or my anger but I suddenly decided I had to live. I'm here, 15 years later, to tell the story—and every word of it is true. —STUBBORN SURVIVOR.

—:—

Dear Survivor: I received many letters reciting similar experiences but yours was the best.

Alienation Animus

Dear Ann: In this sophisticated land of ours if you steal a loaf of bread you can go to jail. If you steal somebody's husband — so what? It happens all the time.

I'd like to start a club called "Alienated Wives Anonymous." Under this umbrella, dumped wives could band together and picket the homes of husband-stealers. They could carry signs which say, "Inside this house lives a Home Wrecker."

Even if we didn't get the wench to lay off we at least would have the satisfaction of embarrassing her and expressing ourselves. This is a lot better than dying by inches and crying rivers of tears—alone.

Maybe you'll say the louse isn't worth the trouble, but the wife whose husband has been stolen would surely get comfort and strength from such an organization. What do you think of it, Ann? — ALONE.

Dear Alone: Not much. I don't believe a husband can be stolen like a sack of salt. When a wife loses her husband to another woman you can be reasonably sure she assisted in the burglary.

Adopted Son

Dear Ann: You advise parents to tell their children—and early—that they are adopted. Our experience proves you are wrong.

We adopted our son when he was one week old. His mother was an alcoholic at 17 and didn't even know who the father was. We gave the boy the best of everything. He was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology with honors at age 20.

He is now 27, married, and has two children. Although they live less than 20 minutes away we see them only once every three weeks.

Last Sunday I lost my temper and told him he wasn't a very good son. He replied, "Well, I suppose I should be grateful because you saved me from a terrible life, but somehow I always felt like a stranger in your home."

If we had not told him he was adopted he would not have had these feelings. So you see, Ann, you are wrong.—HURT.

Dear Hurt: The relationship between that boy and you never was good or he could not have made such a remark. The knowledge that he was adopted did not produce those hostile feelings. Too many children feel the same way about their natural parents.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Don't Just Worry, Take Action

A recent survey reveals that Americans worry a lot about eating too much and getting soft. Well, "worry never robs tomorrow of its sorrow — it only saps today of its strength."

Ida Jean Kain

And that's the way it is with fattening fare. Worrying about weight brings on an uneasy feeling about the fattening effects of good food even while you are eating it. Such meal-time casuistry takes half the joy out of eating but does little to curb calories.

The power of an energizing idea, put on a plane of action, is amazing. One homemaker, overweight for 37 years, triumphed by changing her attitude. She wrote:

"I WAS IN the helpless category until I decided to develop built-in strength. I resolved to be the master of the food and not let it master me. This turned the trick. You have to continue to tell yourself, and believe it. My weight is now 121 pounds. For a time I weighed so much more that I'll never tell! In 10 years I'll report again!"

There it is, attitude determines action. Examine your attitude toward weight control. Design a positive plan of action. You need not hew to a narrow diet path. No one knows your food preferences, your mood of the moment, or your budget. Forget the word diet, apply nutrition know-how, and decide to be in the driver's seat.

How do you feel around 11 o'clock in the morning? An all-gone feeling can stem from a lack of protein at the first meal. Experiment, see what type of breakfast makes it a good morning. Fix an egg in one of the non-stick pans or in an iron skillet, lightly greased. Cook it very slowly. Take it from our dieter, "You'll get the prettiest egg you ever saw!" Or have a whole-grain cereal and milk. Also include fruit or juice, a slice of toast and coffee.

WHAT TYPE of lunch do you enjoy, and how long does it keep you going strong? It should see you through late afternoon, at which time a purposeful snack can carry you over until dinner. About lunch. . .the much-maligned sandwich is not forbidden food. Made with a thick filling of lean meat or chicken and thinly sliced bread, lightly spread, a sandwich can be most satisfying. Finish off with a piece of fresh fruit and a beverage.

If you are a working girl, you may wish to have your meat and vegetables at the noon meal, and eat a light, easy-to-prepare supper.

Are you adding pounds from extra calories consumed at dinner? An enjoyable meal need not be fattening, provided you are the master. When you take a cocktail, skip dessert. If you find a baked potato satisfying, leave off bread. In short, do not overeat.

It's unintelligent to worry about weight. Take a mature attitude toward food and you can make weight control a challenging venture. Why not be in the driver's seat?

Send stamped, self-addressed, long envelope for Eat To Build Leanness. Address request to Ida Jean Kain, care of The Review. Postcard requests cannot be answered.

Air Chamber Utilized To Reduce Gangrene

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (AP) — The Marine Corps says a youthful Marine, who developed gangrene after a rattlesnake bite, spent 40 hours in a decompression chamber to avoid amputation of his arm.

The novel treatment was administered in a chamber filled with oxygen aboard a submarine tender in San Diego Bay.

Lance Cpl. Stephen L. Krmer, 23, of Bloomdale, Mo., returned to the Camp Pendleton base hospital Saturday much improved. Physicians said the treatment concentrated the oxygen in his blood and this counteracted the gangrenous infection.

Doctors said his condition was serious but that no amputation would be necessary.

Milwaukee Ends Losing Streak At 4

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Rico Carty slammed a two-run homer and Frank Bolling drove in two more with a single as the Milwaukee Braves defeated Pittsburgh 5-2 Sunday and ended a four-game losing streak.

Carty's homer, his fourth of the season, came off starter Vernon Law in the fourth. Law gave up nine hits in absorbing his seventh loss against eight victories.

The Pirate runs came on Bob Bailey's seventh homer in the first inning and Jim Pagliaroni's ninth in the fifth inning.

Both were off Hank Fischer, who gave up six hits and struck out six in gaining his second victory without a loss.

Berry Gives Chisox, 1-0, Win Over LA

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ken Berry's home run in the fifth inning powered the Chicago White Sox to a 1-0 victory over the Los Angeles Angels Sunday and ended their five-game losing streak.

Berry sliced a George Brunet pitch into the lower right field stands for his fourth homer of the season. It was only the second given up by Brunet in 76 innings this year.

Tommy John, now 6-3, got the victory with Eddie Fisher's relief help. John allowed just six hits but gave way to Fisher with one out in the ninth.

Brunet, 5-6, allowed only one runner to advance past first base from the fourth inning through the eighth. He survived a walk to Danny Cater and a single by Pete Ward in the first inning, and weathered third-inning singles by Cater and Ward.

The Angels had a scoring chance in the sixth inning when an error by shortstop Ron Hansen, a single by Jose Cardenal and the latter's stolen base put runners at second and third with two away. But John retired Willie Smith on a grounder.

Phils Ask Waivers

'Unfairly Blamed,' Thomas Says Of Clash With Allen

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Frank Thomas said Sunday he was a victim of circumstances in the fight with teammate Rich Allen that prompted the Philadelphia Phillies to ask waivers on Thomas.

"I've been unfairly blamed," said Thomas as he waited to see what National League club would pick up the irrevocable waivers asked by the Phillies.

"I was told that's what happens when you're 36 and the other fellow is 23 and leading the league in hitting."

Thomas, whose clutch hitting last year almost led the Phillies to a pennant, has been warming the bench most of the season. He has batted three times since June 15, including a pinch home run Saturday.

Allen, 1964 Rookie of the Year, is the National League third baseman for the July 13 All-Star game. He and Thomas clashed Saturday night in pregame batting practice.

Hours later, General Manager John Quinn announced that "for the best interest of the club "Thomas was through with the Phillies."

Quinn said Sunday he was positive the veteran first baseman would be claimed by a National League club.

"I know of one club that certainly will take him," Quinn said. "In any event we will not keep him."

Although Quinn insisted he has been trying to deal for Thomas since early June, there was little doubt that the fight with Allen precipitated his departure.

Thomas told this story of what happened at Connie Mack Stadium about two hours before Saturday night's game with Cincinnati:

"I was in the batting cage and Allen and they were kidding me. Allen said 'Do what you did last night,' referring to my striking out in the seventh with runners at first and third. We were behind at the time 3-2."

"I dropped a bunt down the third base line and Rich hollered, 'That's 21 hours too late.'

"I shouted back you're running off at the mouth like Mohamed Cassius Clay."

"Allen threatened to come in the cage after me, and I told him if he wanted to I'd be here.

"He came down the line and I told him I was sorry if I hurt his feelings. 'That don't go with me' Allen said and he hit me in the chest.

"I had a bat in my hand and I hit him on the shoulder. It was a reflex action. I told him if I hadn't had the bat in my hand I would have hit him with my fist."

Thomas said further that after he struck Allen he immediately apologized.

"I could see I hurt him and I was sorry. I felt bad. He wouldn't accept my apology," he said.

The flareup, which became quite lively for a few tense moments, occurred during batting practice two hours before the game with Cincinnati.

"If Thomas had hit Allen on the head when he swung the bat at him, he would have killed him," said one player who helped bring peace to the boiling scene.

Mauch, before the game started, said there would be no reprisals, that he just wanted to forget it.

Astros Cut Los Angeles Lead To One

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston's Claude Raymond checked Los Angeles 3-1 on six hits Sunday, trimming the Dodgers' National League lead to one game.

It was the Dodgers' seventh loss in their last 10 games and cut a full game off their lead over the Cincinnati Reds.

Raymond, bringing his record to 5-3, allowed the Dodgers a run in the first on a single by Willie Davis and Ron Fairly's double, then blanked them the rest of the way.

Houston tied the game in the third when Raymond walked, moved to second on an infield out and came home on Joe Gaines broken-bat double.

The Astros moved ahead in the fourth when Walt Bond reached base on Jim Gilliam's error, advanced to third on Bob Aspromonte's single and scored on an infield out.

Lee Maye came across with the third run in the sixth when he reached first on a fielder's choice and went to third on Ron Fairly's hit.

Former Yankee Hurls No-Hitter For Toledo Club

ATLANTA (AP) — Former New York Yankee hurler Pete Mikkelsen threw a no-hitter and pitched perfect baseball for the last eight innings Sunday as Toledo defeated Atlanta 2-0 in the first game of an International League doubleheader.

Mikkelsen, who said he was a little shocked when the Yankees sent him down to the Triple A league this season, issued only two bases on balls and struck out three in the nine innings.

The biggest scare came in the eighth inning when Atlanta shortstop Ernie Bowman hit a hard line drive down the first base line.

But Mudhen first baseman Bill Roman made a beautiful fielding play and made the out.

Mikkelsen now has a 3-2 record.

The victory was the Indians' 19th in their last 23 games, a surge that has carried them to the top of the American League standings.

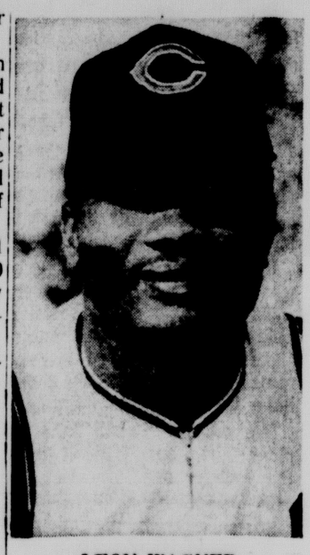

Rocky Colavito, who drove in the tying runs for Cleveland in the sixth inning, started the winning rally by beating out an infield hit with two out in the eighth. Wagner followed with his homer off Baltimore starter Milt Pappas, now 8-3.

The victory went to Ralph Terry, who brought his record to 9-3 with his fourth straight victory. Terry was tagged for two runs and four hits in the first inning but surrendered only two more hits the rest of the way.

Twins Whip A's To Tie For 1st

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Tony Oliva hit a three-run homer and Harmon Killebrew hit a two-run shot as the Minnesota Twins whipped Kansas City 5-2 Sunday. The victory kept the Twins in a tie for the American League lead with Cleveland.

Camilo Pascual started for the Twins but had to leave the game in the third inning when he aggravated a pulled back muscle.

Jerry Fosnow replaced him and gave up two runs in the fourth.

The Twins put two men aboard in the sixth against Fred Talbot on a walk, a force play and a single by Sandy Valdespino. Oliva then hit a drive that carried approximately 410 feet, over the fence in left-center. It was his 12th homer of the season.

Killebrew closed out the scoring for Minnesota with his 14th homer, a two-run blast in the ninth inning.

John Klippstein took over the Twins' pitching assignment in the sixth and retired the A's in order over the final four innings.

BOSTON (AP) — A two-run homer by Tony Conigliaro, his 16th of the year, carried Boston to a 5-3 victory over the New York Yankees Sunday, ending a five-game Red Sox losing streak.

Conigliaro's blast over the left field wall in the fourth followed a double by Lee Thomas and ended the day for Yankee starter Jim Bouton, who suffered his eighth loss in 12 decisions. The homer wiped out a 3-2 Yankee lead.

New York scored three times in the first inning, bunching singles by Bobby Richardson and Tony Kubek, Joe Pepitone's double and another single by Hector Lopez.

Boston right-hander Bill Monbouquette settled down after that, shutting out the Yankees until the eighth when relief ace Dick Radatz was called on to cut off a Yankee rally.

Sam Snead Retains World Senior Title

By THOMAS A. REEDY

FORMBY, England (AP) — Sam Snead celebrated the Fourth of July Sunday by defending successfully his World Senior Golf Championship title even though he conceded he wasn't "exactly a firecracker out there."

The White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., professional defeated Britain's Charlie Ward 1-up in 37 holes to retain the Teachers' title on the 6,862-yard par-73 Formby links, seven miles from Southport where the 1965 British Open Championship will be held starting Wednesday.

Snead and Ward, now both 53, put on a pretty good exhibition for aging champs, and the crowd of 3,000 enjoyed it immensely. Brisk wind made play tricky at least.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Leon Wagner hit the first pitch to him in the eight inning for a two-run homer, giving the Cleveland Indians a 4-2 victory over Baltimore Sunday.

The victory was the Indians' 19th in their last 23 games, a surge that has carried them to the top of the American League standings.

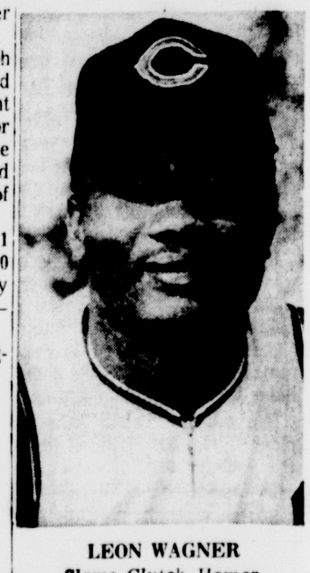

Rocky Colavito, who drove in the tying runs for Cleveland in the sixth inning, started the winning rally by beating out an infield hit with two out in the eighth. Wagner followed with his homer off Baltimore starter Milt Pappas, now 8-3.

The victory went to Ralph Terry, who brought his record to 9-3 with his fourth straight victory. Terry was tagged for two runs and four hits in the first inning but surrendered only two more hits the rest of the way.

Twins Whip A's To Tie For 1st

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Tony Oliva hit a three-run homer and Harmon Killebrew hit a two-run shot as the Minnesota Twins whipped Kansas City 5-2 Sunday. The victory kept the Twins in a tie for the American League lead with Cleveland.

Camilo Pascual started for the Twins but had to leave the game in the third inning when he aggravated a pulled back muscle.

Jerry Fosnow replaced him and gave up two runs in the fourth.

The Twins put two men aboard in the sixth against Fred Talbot on a walk, a force play and a single by Sandy Valdespino. Oliva then hit a drive that carried approximately 410 feet, over the fence in left-center. It was his 12th homer of the season.

Killebrew closed out the scoring for Minnesota with his 14th homer, a two-run blast in the ninth inning.

Conigliaro's Homer Tops Yankees, 5-3

BOSTON (AP) — A two-run homer by Tony Conigliaro, his 16th of the year, carried Boston to a 5-3 victory over the New York Yankees Sunday, ending a five-game Red Sox losing streak.

Conigliaro's blast over the left field wall in the fourth followed a double by Lee Thomas and ended the day for Yankee starter Jim Bouton, who suffered his eighth loss in 12 decisions. The homer wiped out a 3-2 Yankee lead.

New York scored three times in the first inning, bunching singles by Bobby Richardson and Tony Kubek, Joe Pepitone's double and another single by Hector Lopez.

Boston right-hander Bill Monbouquette settled down after that, shutting out the Yankees until the eighth when relief ace Dick Radatz was called on to cut off a Yankee rally.

Sam Snead Retains World Senior Title

By THOMAS A. REEDY

FORMBY, England (AP) — Sam Snead celebrated the Fourth of July Sunday by defending successfully his World Senior Golf Championship title even though he conceded he wasn't "exactly a firecracker out there."

The White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., professional defeated Britain's Charlie Ward 1-up in 37 holes to retain the Teachers' title on the 6,862-yard par-73 Formby links, seven miles from Southport where the 1965 British Open Championship will be held starting Wednesday.

Snead and Ward, now both 53, put on a pretty good exhibition for aging champs, and the crowd of 3,000 enjoyed it immensely. Brisk wind made play tricky at least.

Cardinals, Yanks Will Warm Bench

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The world champion St. Louis Cardinals and their World Series victims, the New York Yankees, will be bench warmers when the All-Star Game July 13 at Minneapolis-St. Paul begins unless a Card or Yank pitcher is named to start.

The Cardinals were shut out in the All-Star voting for the National League team, along with the New York Mets and the Houston Astros. The starting line-up, announced Sunday, had only two holdovers from 1964—Willie Mays of San Francisco in center field and Joe Torre of Milwaukee as the catcher. Milwaukee, with Torre and Hank Aaron in right field, was the only team with more than one starter.

When the American League voting, also by players, managers and coaches, was announced last week, not a single Yankee made the starting line-up — for the first time in the classic's 32-year history. In fact, Brooks Robinson, Baltimore's third baseman, was the only American League repeater from the 1964 game at New York's Shea Stadium, won 7-4 by the National League on Johnny Callison's three-run homer in the ninth inning.

For the first time in the long series dating back to 1933, the National League finally pulled even with the American at 17-17-1. The Nationals have won six of the last eight, the eight including the tie at Boston in 1963 when they were playing two All-Star games a year.

Although the managers are not obliged to name the second team members to the squad, they usually follow the voting in filling out their rosters.

The remainder of the American League squad will be announced Tuesday and the rest of the National League on Wednesday. The pitchers for both sides will be released Friday. Under the rules of the game, the eight starters, excluding pitchers, must play at least the first three innings, unless injured.

Harper, Rose Gun Cincy's 4-1 Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A two-run double by Pete Rose and Tom Harper's two-run homer backed the five-hit pitching of Joe Nuxhall and carried Cincinnati to a 4-1 victory over Philadelphia Sunday.

The Reds built a 2-0 lead against Phillies starter Bo Belinsky in the third inning when Leo Cardenas and Harper walked, and Rose doubled both home with a drive to the scoreboard in right-center field.

Alex Johnson tripled for Philadelphia and scored on a single by Cookie Rojas to make it 2-1 in the fourth, but Harper hit into the left field seats for his 10th home run with Cardenas aboard via a single in the fifth.

Belinsky, who suffered his fifth loss in eight decisions, went 5 1-3 innings before leaving in favor of Lew Burdette.

Nuxhall boosted his record to 3-2, striking out nine in his first complete game of the season.

Riverview, Lawyers Notch Colt Verdicts

The Lawyers and Riverview Florists ran away from their opponents to post one-sided victories Sunday in the Colt League.

The Lawyers registered a 20-12 victory over Central Service and Riverview punched out a 13-2 victory in a pair of loosely played games which produced a total of 28 errors.

In winning, the Lawyers committed nine errors while Central had six miscues. Riverview took advantage of 12 errors by the Realtors.

Bob Morehead's three hits led the Lawyers' 14-hit attack while Emery Brewer smacked a triple and two singles for Central Service.

Wood was the winning pitcher and gave up five hits while helping his own cause by collecting two hits.

Bob Pancake hurled Riverview's victory allowing only four hits. Stoddard was the losing pitcher and yielded six hits while his teammates were committing a dozen errors.

Denny Smith's double paced Riverview's attack while Kelmbara and Stewart clubbed two-base hits for the Realtors.

Post 374 Claims, 6-4, Win On Horger's Blast

Dennis Horger clubbed a two-run roundtripper in the seventh inning to power Post 374 to a 6-4 victory over Columbiana Sunday on the Columbiana diamond.

The victory leaves East Liverpool and Salem tied as the first half of the season came to an end. Post 374 and Salem will meet later this week to decide the first half championship.

The winner will earn the right to represent the county in the District tournament scheduled to start Friday at Columbiana with nine counties represented.

After Horger belted the winning home run in the top of the seventh, Bill Wright, the winning hurler, struck out the side in the last of the seventh to secure the victory.

Wright had 10 strikeouts for the contest as Cosceno was the losing pitcher.

Bill Smith clubbed a triple and single and drove in one run while Larry Ensinger tripled and Joe Massey singled twice for Post 374.

The East Liverpool nine will play a doubleheader with Carrollton today at Colt Field with the first game at 1:30 p.m.

'Trim' Casper Open Champ

CHICAGO (AP) — A trim Billy Casper, who knocked down his weight from 220 pounds to 180 since April, won the Western Golf Open Sunday with a closing 64 for a 72-hole total of 14-under-par 270.

The jolly 34-year-old former fat man of the PGA circuit, whose weight problem was corrected by a Chicago allergist, picked up a $11,000 first prize to mark his 41st straight money-winning tournament — longest streak of any active player.

Collecting his second victory of the season after winning the Bob Hope Desert Classic at Palm Springs last winter, Casper brushed aside a bunched group of contenders in the final round over the par 36-35—71 Tam O'Shanter course with a 30-34 finishing swish.

Women's Open Won By Maryland Golfer

NORTHFIELD, N.J. (AP) — Carol Mann of Towson, Md., shaking off an attack of the jitters, beat out a rallying Kathy Cornelius by two strokes Sunday and won the Women's National Open Golf Championship with a 290 score that stamped her as the sport's new Mickey Wright.

The 24-year-old, 6-foot-3 Maryland girl broke into tears after she ran in a four-foot putt for a birdie on the final for an even par 72.

Mrs. Cornelius, 32-year-old Rancho Sante Fe, Calif., mother who led through the first two rounds, had finished a few moments before with a 69 for 292.

It was Miss Mann's second tournament victory in as many weeks and made her the leading contender for the throne vacated by the long-hitting Miss Wright.

Beaver County's Wheat Payments Are Due Shortly

Beaver County farmers who have participated in the 1965 wheat program will begin getting program payments shortly after July 15, Glenn Campbell, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, said today.

The payments will cover both marketing certificates and diversion payments.

Approximately 194 will be eligible for certificates and diversion payments, according to Campbell, who reminded that farmers participating are also eligible for loans averaging $1.34 per bushel in the county on their entire 1965 wheat production.

Campbell pointed out the certificates are based on the participating farm's estimated share of the wheat crop needed for domestic and export consumption. Domestic marketing certificates are worth 75 cents a bushel on as much as 45 per cent of the normal production of the farm allotment and export certificates are worth 30 cents a bushel on as much as 35 per cent of the farm allotment's normal production. Domestic processors and exporters buy the certificates to cover their wheat use and shipments, and the resulting funds are used to make the certificate payments to farmers.

The diversion payments are made for reducing wheat acreage at least 10 per cent below 1965 farm allotment and diverting the acreage into an approved conserving use. They are based on 50 per cent of the county price - support loan rate and the normal yield for the farm, applied to the acres qualifying for the payments.

Busy Monsoon

The monsoon that sweeps India every summer influences weather around the world.

Meteorologists of the International Indian Ocean Expedition have discovered, after a two-year study, that this wind phenomenon is far more powerful and complex than ever before suspected.

"The monsoon system injects vast amounts of energy into the atmosphere above India and Pakistan, affecting temperature and air circulation throughout that area and probably around the entire globe," reports Dr. Colin S. Ramage, scientific director of the meteorology program.

India's famed monsoon rains bring life or death, sometimes both at once, the National Geographic Society says.

Each summer, the subcontinent's great inland plains heat up to 120 degrees. Relative humidity drops as low as 1 per cent. As the warm air rises, a huge low-pressure area forms. Circulating air whirls faster and the updraft becomes powerful enough to suck northward the water-laden trade winds moving across the Indian Ocean.

The summer monsoon strikes first along the southwest coast of India. When racing rain clouds hit inland mountain ranges, they drop most of their moisture.

Firecracker Blamed In District Grass Fire

A firecracker tossed from an auto by a youngster was blamed for a grass fire that broke out along Route 30 east of Lisbon Sunday afternoon, Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan's office reported at Lisbon.

The report of the blaze was telephoned to the sheriff's office at 3:13 and the Lisbon volunteer fire department was dispatched. The blaze was approximately 2½ miles east of the village near the Marquis China Co., a retail ware stand.

The blaze burned over a comparatively small area, apparently with no damage. Firemen returned to the station at 3:46.

Armed clashes between U.S. troops and Panamanian mobs in the Canal Zone Jan. 9-10 brought a major international crisis and caused the deaths of 21 Panamanians and four American soldiers.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

2 IN MEMORIAM

IN memory of Danny Jim Little, 1948-1955. You seemed so small, just 7 years grown. To take that long trip all alone, and we who sheltered you from harm. And kept you fed and clothed and warm. We're overcome with grief to see you face alone death's mystery—And you who'd seldom left your home. Now trod the longest trail alone. No, not alone, for we can see an angel waiting there for thee. And right inside the Golden Gate. The Christ Child smiles and says, "We wait for you—come in" You grasp His outstretched hand in hearty clasp, And joining in the happy band, To us you turn and wave your hand; And suddenly we knew that you, Like all the rest, are smiling, too. Though lonely is the path we trod, How can we mourn when you're with God.

Cardinals, Yanks Will Warm Bench

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The world champion St. Louis Cardinals and their World Series victims, the New York Yankees, will be bench warmers when the All-Star Game July 13 at Minneapolis-St. Paul begins unless a Card or Yank pitcher is named to start.

The Cardinals were shut out in the All-Star voting for the National League team, along with the New York Mets and the Houston Astros. The starting line-up, announced Sunday, had only two holdovers from 1964—Willie Mays of San Francisco in center field and Joe Torre of Milwaukee as the catcher. Milwaukee, with Torre and Hank Aaron in right field, was the only team with more than one starter.

When the American League voting, also by players, managers and coaches, was announced last week, not a single Yankee made the starting line-up — for the first time in the classic's 32-year history. In fact, Brooks Robinson, Baltimore's third baseman, was the only American League repeater from the 1964 game at New York's Shea Stadium, won 7-4 by the National League on Johnny Callison's three-run homer in the ninth inning.

For the first time in the long series dating back to 1933, the National League finally pulled even with the American at 17-17-1. The Nationals have won six of the last eight, the eight including the tie at Boston in 1963 when they were playing two All-Star games a year.

Although the managers are not obliged to name the second team members to the squad, they usually follow the voting in filling out their rosters.

The remainder of the American League squad will be announced Tuesday and the rest of the National League on Wednesday. The pitchers for both sides will be released Friday. Under the rules of the game, the eight starters, excluding pitchers, must play at least the first three innings, unless injured.

Harper, Rose Gun Cincy's 4-1 Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A two-run double by Pete Rose and Tom Harper's two-run homer backed the five-hit pitching of Joe Nuxhall and carried Cincinnati to a 4-1 victory over Philadelphia Sunday.

The Reds built a 2-0 lead against Phillies starter Bo Belinsky in the third inning when Leo Cardenas and Harper walked, and Rose doubled both home with a drive to the scoreboard in right-center field.

Alex Johnson tripled for Philadelphia and scored on a single by Cookie Rojas to make it 2-1 in the fourth, but Harper hit into the left field seats for his 10th home run with Cardenas aboard via a single in the fifth.

Belinsky, who suffered his fifth loss in eight decisions, went 5 1-3 innings before leaving in favor of Lew Burdette.

Nuxhall boosted his record to 3-2, striking out nine in his first complete game of the season.

Home run— Cincinnati, Harper (10).

Riverview, Lawyers Notch Colt Verdicts

The Lawyers and Riverview Florists ran away from their opponents to post one-sided victories Sunday in the Colt League.

The Lawyers registered a 20-12 victory over Central Service and Riverview punched out a 13-2 victory in a pair of loosely played games which produced a total of 28 errors.

In winning, the Lawyers committed nine errors while Central had six miscues. Riverview took advantage of 12 errors by the Realtors.

Bob Morehead's three hits led the Lawyers' 14-hit attack while Emery Brewer smacked a triple and two singles for Central Service.

Wood was the winning pitcher and gave up five hits while helping his own cause by collecting two hits.

Bob Pancake hurled Riverview's victory allowing only four hits. Stoddard was the losing pitcher and yielded six hits while his teammates were committing a dozen errors.

Denny Smith's double paced Riverview's attack while Kelmbara and Stewart clubbed two-base hits for the Realtors.

Post 374 Claims, 6-4, Win On Horger's Blast

Dennis Horger clubbed a two-run roundtripper in the seventh inning to power Post 374 to a 6-4 victory over Columbiana Sunday on the Columbiana diamond.

The victory leaves East Liverpool and Salem tied as the first half of the season came to an end. Post 374 and Salem will meet later this week to decide the first half championship.

The winner will earn the right to represent the county in the District tournament scheduled to start Friday at Columbiana with nine counties represented.

After Horger belted the winning home run in the top of the seventh, Bill Wright, the winning hurler, struck out the side in the last of the seventh to secure the victory.

Wright had 10 strikeouts for the contest as Cosceno was the losing pitcher.

Bill Smith clubbed a triple and single and drove in one run while Larry Ensinger tripled and Joe Massey singled twice for Post 374.

The East Liverpool nine will play a doubleheader with Carrollton today at Colt Field with the first game at 1:30 p.m.

'Trim' Casper Open Champ

CHICAGO (AP) — A trim Billy Casper, who knocked down his weight from 220 pounds to 180 since April, won the Western Golf Open Sunday with a closing 64 for a 72-hole total of 14-under-par 270.

The jolly 34-year-old former fat man of the PGA circuit, whose weight problem was corrected by a Chicago allergist, picked up a $11,000 first prize to mark his 41st straight money-winning tournament — longest streak of any active player.

Collecting his second victory of the season after winning the Bob Hope Desert Classic at Palm Springs last winter, Casper brushed aside a bunched group of contenders in the final round over the par 36-35—71 Tam O'Shanter course with a 30-34 finishing swish.

Malta is an island 58 miles due south of Sicily in the Mediterranean.

Women's Open Won By Maryland Golfer

NORTHFIELD, N.J. (AP) — Carol Mann of Towson, Md., shaking off an attack of the jitters, beat out a rallying Kathy Cornelius by two strokes Sunday and won the Women's National Open Golf Championship with a 290 score that stamped her as the sport's new Mickey Wright.

The 24-year-old, 6-foot-3 Maryland girl broke into tears after she ran in a four-foot putt for a birdie on the final for an even par 72.

Mrs. Cornelius, 32-year-old Rancho Sante Fe, Calif., mother who led through the first two rounds, had finished a few moments before with a 69 for 292.

It was Miss Mann's second tournament victory in as many weeks and made her the leading contender for the throne vacated by the long-hitting Miss Wright.

Beaver County's Wheat Payments Are Due Shortly

Beaver County farmers who have participated in the 1965 wheat program will begin getting program payments shortly after July 15, Glenn Campbell, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee, said today.

The payments will cover both marketing certificates and diversion payments.

Approximately 194 will be eligible for certificates and diversion payments, according to Campbell, who reminded that farmers participating are also eligible for loans averaging $1.34 per bushel in the county on their entire 1965 wheat production.

Campbell pointed out the certificates are based on the participating farm's estimated share of the wheat crop needed for domestic and export consumption. Domestic marketing certificates are worth 75 cents a bushel on as much as 45 per cent of the normal production of the farm allotment and export certificates are worth 30 cents a bushel on as much as 35 per cent of the farm allotment's normal production. Domestic processors and exporters buy the certificates to cover their wheat use and shipments, and the resulting funds are used to make the certificate payments to farmers.

The diversion payments are made for reducing wheat acreage at least 10 per cent below 1965 farm allotment and diverting the acreage into an approved conserving use. They are based on 50 per cent of the county price - support loan rate and the normal yield for the farm, applied to the acres qualifying for the payments.

Busy Monsoon

The monsoon that sweeps India every summer influences weather around the world.

Meteorologists of the International Indian Ocean Expedition have discovered, after a two-year study, that this wind phenomenon is far more powerful and complex than ever before suspected.

"The monsoon system injects vast amounts of energy into the atmosphere above India and Pakistan, affecting temperature and air circulation throughout that area and probably around the entire globe," reports Dr. Colin S. Ramage, scientific director of the meteorology program.

India's famed monsoon rains bring life or death, sometimes both at once, the National Geographic Society says.

Each summer, the subcontinent's great inland plains heat up to 120 degrees. Relative humidity drops as low as 1 per cent. As the warm air rises, a huge low-pressure area forms. Circulating air whirls faster and the updraft becomes powerful enough to suck northward the water-laden trade winds moving across the Indian Ocean.

The summer monsoon strikes first along the southwest coast of India. When racing rain clouds hit inland mountain ranges, they drop most of their moisture.

Firecracker Blamed In District Grass Fire

A firecracker tossed from an auto by a youngster was blamed for a grass fire that broke out along Route 30 east of Lisbon Sunday afternoon, Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan's office reported at Lisbon.

The report of the blaze was telephoned to the sheriff's office at 3:13 and the Lisbon volunteer fire department was dispatched. The blaze was approximately 2½ miles east of the village near the Marquis China Co., a retail ware stand.

The blaze burned over a comparatively small area, apparently with no damage. Firemen returned to the station at 3:46.

Armed clashes between U.S. troops and Panamanian mobs in the Canal Zone Jan. 9-10 brought a major international crisis and caused the deaths of 21 Panamanians and four American soldiers.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

2 IN MEMORIAM

IN memory of Danny Jim Little, 1948-1955. You seemed so small, just 7 years grown. To take that long trip all alone, and we who sheltered you from harm. And kept you fed and clothed and warm. We're overcome with grief to see you face alone death's mystery—And you who'd seldom left your home. Now trod the longest trail alone. No, not alone, for we can see an angel waiting there for thee. And right inside the Golden Gate. The Christ Child smiles and says, "We wait for you—come in" You grasp His outstretched hand in hearty clasp. And joining in the happy band. To us you turn and wave your hand; And suddenly we knew that you. Like all the rest, are smiling, too. Though lonely is the path we trod, How can we mourn when you're with God.

A A DEALER needs cars and pickups. Must be exceptionally sharp. Will pay cash or if payments too high will trade back to older model — finance balances paid off. "Say," why not trade back to one of the most economical cars in the world for approximately $1 a day. You can trade your big costly operating car for a like new Volkswagen with operating on 1c per mile, 5.3 pints of the best oil, get up to 43.2 miles on regular gas, up to 100,000 miles on your first set of tires, also in replacing a new rear fender costs only $18.95, insurance is much, much less on a Volkswagen. Make us prove it. You eliminate water pump, radiator, anti-freeze, hose, clamps, drive shaft assembly. It's a rear end air cooled engine. You can almost trade year for year for the price of power steering, power brakes, power windows, power seat, and automatic on your big costly operating car. Volkswagen has the lowest depreciation, providing you keep it sharp, highest trade in value, and it starts at $1,563 P.O.E. and up. You pay less and save 50c out of every $1 when you drive a Volkswagen versus a big costly operating car. Why not join the millions of people who are driving the Volkswagen. There must be a reason. Come in, write, or call and talk to our courteous salesmen. SEE your local representative Mr. CHUCK RINESTINE. See it — Drive it — Just try it. — There goes another Volkswagen. Why does he drive a Volkswagen? Ask the man who owns one. Beaver Valley Volkswagen, 294 State St., Vanport, Beaver, Pa. Your factory dealer only 20 miles from East Liverpool, Ohio on Pa. Rt. 68. 775-4550.

P. S. PARTS AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY or on tap within 24 hours. STARTING JUNE 20TH Service almost immediately. Call Mr. Charles Coen, your local man from Wellsville and our service manager or Mr. Earl King, parts manager for more information.

74-A Automobiles For Rent

A A DEALER needs cars and pickups. Must be exceptionally sharp. Will pay cash or if payments too high will trade back to older model — finance balances paid off. "Say," why not trade back to one of the most economical cars in the world for approximately $1 a day. You can trade your big costly operating car for a like new Volkswagen with operating on 1c per mile, 5.3 pints of the best oil, get up to 43.2 miles on regular gas, up to 100,000 miles on your first set of tires, also in replacing a new rear fender costs only $18.95, insurance is much, much less on a Volkswagen. Make us prove it. You eliminate water pump, radiator, anti-freeze, hose, clamps, drive shaft assembly. It's a rear end air cooled engine. You can almost trade year for year for the price of power steering, power brakes, power windows, power seat, and automatic on your big costly operating car. Volkswagen has the lowest depreciation, providing you keep it sharp, highest trade in value, and it starts at $1,563 P.O.E. and up. You pay less and save 50c out of every $1 when you drive a Volkswagen versus a big costly operating car. Why not join the millions of people who are driving the Volkswagen. There must be a reason. Come in, write, or call and talk to our courteous salesmen. SEE your local representative Mr. CHUCK RINESTINE. See it — Drive it — Just try it. — There goes another Volkswagen. Why does he drive a Volkswagen? Ask the man who owns one. Beaver Valley Volkswagen, 294 State St., Vanport, Beaver, Pa. Your factory dealer only 20 miles from East Liverpool, Ohio on Pa. Rt. 68. 775-4550.

P. S. PARTS AVAILABLE IMMEDIATELY or on tap within 24 hours. STARTING JUNE 20TH Service almost immediately. Call Mr. Charles Coen, your local man from Wellsville and our service manager or Mr. Earl King, parts manager for more information.

OFF THE RECORD

"When he first said, 'It's bedtime, get going', I thought he was talking to his little boy."

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, July 5, the 186th day of 1965. There are 179 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1810, showman Phineas T. Barnum was born at Bethel, Conn. Barnum made a fortune by exploiting the theory that "the American people liked to be fooled."

On this date:

In 1680, the French explorer, Father Louis Hennepin, discovered St. Anthony Falls, now the site of Minneapolis.

In 1801, the U.S. Navy's first admiral, David Farragut, was born.

In 1830, the French occupied Algiers.

In 1865, the Salvation Army was founded.

In 1935, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed the Wagner-Connery bill, known later as the National Labor Relations Act.

Ten years ago—The Spanish government accepted a Madrid court verdict allowing Spaniards who are baptized Roman Catholics to contract civil marriage with non-Catholics.

Five years ago — The Soviet Union started tests in the Central Pacific of a multistage ballistic rocket.

One year ago—An earthquake in Mexico's Guerrero State wrecked several mountain villages and killed at least 36.

Odd Facts

British South Africa, outside the Republic of South Africa, is under a high commissioner appointed by the queen and responsible to the secretary of state for commonwealth relations.

Cherry blossom time in Washington is looked upon as the opening of spring. The famous cherry trees encircle the Tidal Basin in West Potomac Park and for two miles line the roadside in East Potomac Park.

Junior Editors Quiz on NIAGARA FALLS

QUESTION: Why does so much water go roaring over Niagara Falls?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Study the little diagram on the upper right and you will get the answer. You will see that the water spills over from four of the Great Lakes—Superior, Michigan, Huron and Erie—then runs downhill into Lake Ontario, from there to the Saint Lawrence River and finally to the sea. Water must always flow downhill, following the attraction of gravitation. Lake Superior is the highest of the Great Lakes, being 602 feet above sea level, the Lake Superior water spills into them, er, 581 feet above sea level, the Lake Superior water spills into them, and from Huron it falls to the level of Lake Erie, 573 feet. From Erie the spillover lake water flows, as the Niagara River, 35 miles toward the lower level of Lake Ontario, which is 247 feet. In passing this 35 miles, the water comes to the sudden drop of Niagara Falls and thunders over it in a world-famous cascade, 500,000 tons of water plunging down every minute. This great volume cuts and breaks away the rock over which it falls so that Niagara is slowly moving upstream toward Lake Erie. At one part, Horseshoe Falls, the rock ledge is being cut back about three feet each year.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: After the Great Lakes water flows through Lake Ontario it moves down the Saint Lawrence River. Once, obstacles prevented ships from passing through to the sea. Look up Saint Lawrence Seaway in an encyclopedia to see how these obstacles were overcome through the cooperation of two great friendly nations.

Pilot Recalls Vividly

Hypnosis Used To Learn Details Of Plane's Crash

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board has used hypnosis for the first time to obtain crash details from an aircraft pilot who suffered a temporary memory loss in the accident.

The results were so successful that hypnosis will be tried under similar future circumstances.

It is also unlikely the CAB will use so-called truth serum to recover the details of an air crash because of the success with hypnosis.

These developments were disclosed Sunday by John J. Carroll, veteran safety investigator for the CAB.

Carroll said that because of pitfalls in the use of narcotic interrogation that do not occur in hypnotism, the latter technique was employed on the pilot of a helicopter involved in a non-fatal crash on the Pacific Coast.

Carroll declined to give the circumstances of the accident, or the name of the pilot. But he said the experiment was performed by a well-known Los Angeles psychiatrist.

Carroll said the pilot, who suffered serious injuries, had a temporary loss of memory covering a period from before the start of the flight all the way through the equipment failure and until after the accident had occurred.

Carroll said the pilot in a state of hypnosis was able to recall the following, all of which had been lost to his conscious memory:

All the events from the time he arrived at the airport until his passengers arrived. The passenger boarding, the preflight check, and the departure. All of the events from the time the failure occurred, through the descent and through impact, along with the action he took after the helicopter struck the ground.

"A very interesting part was where we were leading him through the recall, and he described the passengers arriving by automobile," Carroll said.

"He could remember the make of the car and almost to the digit the license plate of the car — facts he consciously never recalled."

2 Cub Scouts Honored By Church

Fr. Donald T. DeCarlo pins the Parvuli Dei award on Donald McDowell as James Young, who also received the award, looks on.

The presentations were made Sunday during 9 o'clock Mass at St. Aloysius Church for achievements in Cub Scouting.

Young, 10, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Young of Laura Ave. and McDowell, 10, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald McDowell of Boyd Rd.

The two youngsters have completed their training with Pack 7 of St. Aloysius School.

Yesterday's awards represented the third and fourth Parvuli Dei medals which have been presented by the church.

Brush Blaze Quelled

SUMMITVILLE—The Franklin Township volunteer fire department was called at 5 p.m. Sunday to extinguish a brush fire on a wooded tract on the Arthur Hicks property about a mile and a half south of here. The fire was quelled quickly, with no apparent damage. The cause was undetermined.

Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy, was a West Point graduate.

Tourists Slated For Washington Guide Briefings

WASHINGTON (AP) — As many a person knows, Washington is a tourist town.

But, as many a tourist knows, there's much to see but not a lot of information about many of the buildings you do see — especially around the mall.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall has announced that starting Tuesday, the National Park Service will hold orientation programs daily in the departmental auditorium to tell tourists about the mall — that stretch of parkway linking the Capitol, the Washington Monument and the Lincoln Memorial. And all the building around it.

There'll be three half-hour guided tours daily for sections of the mall, and at the Lincoln Memorial they've opened a kiosk, staffed by hostesses, to pass out map-pamphlet's outlining one-day and two-day walking tours of the mall's top attraction.

Marion Man Honored By World Affairs Unit

WASHINGTON (AP)—Leo V. Savage, 25, president of the Ohio Collegiate Association on World Affairs, was presented a citation Sunday by Sukich Nimmanheminda, ambassador of Thailand.

The citation to the Marion, Ohio, man said he had striven towards the foundation of the association, which has as its policy the promotion of interest and understanding between nations.

Franklin's Road Work Discussed

SUMMITVILLE — Road projects were discussed at a meeting of Franklin Township trustees Saturday afternoon.

Forrest Thompson, president, reported calcium chloride, surfacing material is being applied to Township Rd. 845 west of St. John's Catholic Church, the County Line Rd. and a mile-long stretch of Township Rd. 729. Thompson also reported the first mowing of grass and weeds along road berms is complete and that unsurfaced roads are being scraped.

The trustees agreed to slope an embankment on the County Line Rd. adjacent to the Harold Kenmuir farm to help prevent drifting snow in winter. Bills of $988 were ordered paid.

Constable Forrest Young submitted a report on May and June activity showing 750 miles of road patrolled, two accidents investigated, five warnings issued and 32 miscellaneous messages handled.

The next meeting will be Saturday, July 17.
